LOCAL GOVERNMENT (REPEAL OF ENACTMENTS) BILL, 1949.

Mar a ritheadh ag Seanad Éireann.

As passed by Seanad Éireann.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

Since 1922 the law relating to local government has undergone considerable change; the number of local authorities has been reduced and new methods of administration have been adopted. Provisions dealing with services such as public assistance and roads have been recast and new procedures for the appointment and control of officers and the purchase of supplies have been put into operation.

These changes have rendered many of the existing statutory provisions relating to local government unnecessary.

The purpose of the Bill is to repeal provisions in local government statutes which are spent, obsolete or otherwise unnecessary. The reasons for the repeal of the provisions set out in the schedule to the Bill are as follows:

(Where only sections or words in sections of an Act will be repealed a reference is given to the section.)

GRAND JURY (IRELAND) ACT, 1816.

Regulated proceedings of grand juries on bills of indictment. Obsolete. (See section 27, Courts of Justice Act, 1924.)
