About the Houses of the Oireachtas Commission and the Houses of the Oireachtas Service

The Houses of the Oireachtas (the Irish Parliament) consists of two Houses, Dáil Éireann and Seanad Éireann. The Houses of the Oireachtas Commission (“the Commission”) is the governing body which oversees the provision of services to the Houses and their Members by the Houses of the Oireachtas Service (“the Service”) (the parliamentary administration) in accordance with the Houses of the Oireachtas Commission Acts 2003-2019. The Commission is accountable to the Houses in the performance of its functions and for ensuring value for money. The Commission is financed from the Central Fund on a triennial basis and has control over current expenditure and, to a considerable degree, over its staffing numbers.

The primary functions of the Commission are:

- to provide for the running of the Houses;
- to act as a governing body of the Service;
- to consider and determine policy in relation to the Service; and
- to oversee the implementation of that policy by the Secretary General.

The Commission has no role in regulating parliamentary business.

The Commission is chaired by the Ceann Comhairle (Speaker) of Dáil Éireann and consists of 11 members, including the Cathaoirleach (Speaker) of Seanad Éireann, and the Clerk of the Dáil/Secretary General who is also the Chief Executive of the Commission. All other members of the Commission are Members of either Dáil Éireann or Seanad Éireann. Appropriate corporate governance procedures and structures are in place to enable the Commission to effectively discharge its functions as a governing board, including a Finance Committee and an Audit Committee.

The Houses of the Oireachtas Service is the independent civil service agency which supports the running of both Houses and provides administrative services on behalf of the Commission as the governing authority. The mission of the Service is to provide high quality parliamentary services to the Houses of the Oireachtas, their Committees, the Members and to the Houses of the Oireachtas Commission. The values of the Service are built around leadership, integrity and impartiality, excellence, accountability and accessibility.

The key strategic objectives of the Service for 2019-2021 are to be:

- An Effective Parliament;
- An Open and Engaged Parliament;
- A Digital Parliament;
- A Well Supported Parliamentary Community.

There are approximately 527 civil servants employed in the Service. Service staff members have significant day-to-day contact with the 220 Members of the Houses of the Oireachtas and their staff. Further information on the role of the Houses, the Commission and the Service is available on www.oireachtas.ie.

Parliamentary Budget Office

The objective of the Parliamentary Budget Office (PBO) is to support the Houses of the Oireachtas and its Committees in relation to fiscal issues and the management of the public finances. The office is independent and impartial, staffed by specialist civil servants, and provides expert advice and analysis to the Houses.

The PBO fulfils this objective by providing to the Houses of the Oireachtas and its Committees fiscal and economic information, analysis and advice that is independent and impartial relating to:

- The macroeconomic conditions in the State;
- Developments affecting public finances;
- The management of public finances; and,
- The financial implications of proposals affecting the public finances.

1. Shortlisting of candidates on the basis of the information contained in their applications;
2. A remote Interview

4. An exam/test;
5. A final competitive interview.

Shortlisting

Normally the number of applications received for a position exceeds that required to fill existing and future vacancies to the position. While a candidate may meet the eligibility requirements of the competition, if the numbers applying for the position are such that it would not be practical to interview everyone, the Oireachtas Service may decide that a limited number only will be called to interview. In this respect, the Oireachtas Service provide for the employment of a short-listing process to select a group for interview who, based on an examination of the application forms, appear to be the most suitable for the position. An expert board will examine the application forms against a pre-determined criterion based on the requirements of the position. This is not to suggest that other candidates are necessarily unsuitable or incapable of undertaking the job, rather that there are some candidates, who based on their application, appear to be better qualified and/or have more relevant experience. It is therefore in your own interest to provide a detailed and accurate account of your qualifications/ experience on the application form.

Confidentiality

Enquiries may also be made with the police force of any country in which the applicant under consideration for appointment resided. If unsuccessful this information will be destroyed by the Oireachtas Service. If the applicant subsequently comes under consideration for another position, they will be required to supply this information again.

Other important information

The Oireachtas Service will not be responsible for refunding any expenses incurred by candidates.

The admission of a person to a campaign, or invitation to attend an interview, is not to be taken as implying that the Oireachtas Service are satisfied that such person fulfils the requirements of the competition or is not disqualified by law from holding the position and does not carry a guarantee that your application will receive further consideration. It is important, therefore, for you to note that the onus is on you to ensure that you meet the eligibility requirements for the competition before attending for interview. If you do not meet these essential entry requirements but nevertheless attend for interview you will be putting yourself to unnecessary expense.

Prior to recommending any candidate for appointment to this position the Oireachtas Service will make all such enquiries that are deemed necessary to determine the suitability of that candidate. Until all stages of the recruitment process have been fully completed a final determination cannot be made nor can it be deemed or inferred that such a determination has been made.

Should the person recommended for appointment decline, or having accepted it, relinquish it or if an additional vacancy arises the Board may, at its discretion, select and recommend another person for appointment on the results of this selection process. A panel may be formed from which future vacancies may be filled from this campaign.

When making a request for review the candidate must support their request outlining the facts, they believe show that the action taken or decision reached was wrong. A request for review may be refused if the candidate cannot support their request.

The Commission recommends that, subject to the agreement of the candidate, where the office holder (in this instance the Assistant Secretary, Head of Members' and Corporate Services) considers the matter could be resolved they should seek to engage on an informal basis, before making use of the formal review procedure.

Procedure for Informal Review

- A request for Informal review must be made within 5 working days of notification of the decision, and should normally take place between the candidate and a representative of the Oireachtas Service who had played a key role in the selection process.
- Where the decision being conveyed relates to an interim stage of a selection process, the request for informal review must be received within 2 working days of the date of receipt of the decision
- Where a candidate remains dissatisfied following any such informal discussion, he/she may adopt the formal procedures set out below.
- If the candidate wishes the matter to be dealt with by way of a formal review, he/she must do so within 2 working days of the notification of the outcome of the informal review.

Procedure for Formal Review of Selection Process

- The candidate must address his/her concerns in relation to the process in writing to the, Assistant Secretary, Head of Members' and Corporate Services, outlining the facts that they believe show an action taken or decision reached was wrong.
- A request for review must be made within 10 working days of the notification of the selection decision. Where the decision relates to an interim stage of a selection process, the request for review must be received within 4 working days.
- Any extension granted of these time limits will only be granted in the most exceptional of circumstances and will be at the sole discretion of the Assistant Secretary, Head of Members' and Corporate Services.
- The outcome must generally be notified to the candidate within 25 working days of receipt of the request for review.

Complaints Process

A candidate may believe there was a breach of the Commission's Code of Practice by the Oireachtas Service that may have compromised the integrity of the decision reached in the appointments process. The complaints process enables candidates (or potential candidates) to make a complaint under Section 8 to the Service, in the first instance, and to the Commission for Public Service Appointments subsequently on appeal if they remain dissatisfied.

Allegations of a breach of the Code of Practice should be addressed in writing, and within a reasonable timeframe, to the Assistant Secretary, Head of Members' and Corporate Services, in the first instance. The complainant must outline the facts that they believe show that the process followed was wrong. The complainant must also identify the aspect of the Code they believe has been infringed and enclose any relevant documentation that may support the allegation. A complaint may be dismissed if they the complainant cannot support their allegations by setting out how the Oireachtas Service has fallen short of the principles of this Code.

On receipt of a complaint the Oireachtas Service may determine to engage with the complainant on an informal basis

For further information on the above procedures please see the Code of Practice Appointments to Positions in the Civil and Public Service which is available on the website of the Commission for Public Service Appointments, www.cpsa.ie

There is no obligation on the Oireachtas Service to suspend an appointment process while it considers a request for a review. Please note that where a formal review of a recruitment and selection process has taken place under Section 7 of this Code of Practice, a complainant may not seek a further review of the same process under Section 8, other than in the most exceptional circumstances that will be determined by the Commission at its sole discretion.

Requests for Feedback

Feedback in relation to the selection process is available on request.

Please note that the Review Process as set out in the Code of Practice is a separate process with specified timeframes which must be observed. Receipt of feedback is not required to invoke a review. It is not necessary for a candidate to compile a detailed case prior to invoking the review mechanism. The timeframe set out in the CPSA Code cannot be extended for any reason including the provision of feedback.
