Fógraí Tairisceana:
Notices of Motions:

- 140. “That Dáil Éireann:

reaffirms Article 6.1 of the Constitution of Ireland which states: ‘All powers of government, legislative, executive and judicial, derive, under God, from the people, whose right it is to designate the rulers of the State and, in final appeal, to decide all questions of national policy, according to the requirements of the common good.’;

notes that the 31st Dáil established a Constitutional Convention by resolution on 10th July, further notes that on 9th June, 2013, the Constitutional Convention voted overwhelmingly that direct democracy (citizens' initiatives) with adequate safeguards be introduced;

upholds the principle of direct democracy and the holding of Constitutional referendums to affect legislative change;

acknowledges that a newly constituted Citizens' Assembly would help implement the principles of direct democracy by adding citizen-initiated referendums to the Constitution of Ireland;

supports empowering a Citizens' Assembly for the period of one year so that it can devise a new mechanism that will enable citizens to robustly scrutinise proposed legislation, assess and advocate for citizens' initiatives, and table amendments and counter proposals to Government sponsored legislation;

agrees that:

- membership of the new One Year Citizens' Assembly will consist of:
 - a Chairperson, to be appointed by the Taoiseach;
 - a minimum of 66 citizens randomly selected so as to be broadly representative of Irish society and who are entitled to vote;
 - on a referendum; and
 - in local authority elections;
 - a member of the Northern Ireland Assembly from each of the political parties; and
 - one member of the Oireachtas appointed by their political party/grouping; and
- substitutes may be appointed to sit on the Assembly by their political parties/groupings who will be entitled to full participation rights on the Assembly including the right to vote; and further agrees that:

- the Assembly will agree its own rules of procedure to ensure effective conduct of its business which will be done in as economical a manner as possible;
- the Assembly will give appropriate regard to the conventions and clauses contained within the Good Friday and St Andrew's Agreements;
- the Assembly will present an interim report to the Houses of the Oireachtas, including its recommendations, within two months of completing its deliberations;
- the Assembly may invite and accept submissions from interested bodies and members of the public and will seek advice and guidance whenever necessary to aid its members in their deliberations;
- all matters before the Assembly will be determined by a majority of the votes cast by members present;
- the Chairperson will have the casting vote in the event of a hung vote; and
- the Taoiseach will provide to the Houses of the Oireachtas a response to the recommendation(s) of the Assembly within one month of receiving the interim and final reports, and he/she will indicate the timeframe for when the Dáil envisages holding any related referendum.” — *Gerry Adams, Richard Boyd Barrett, John Brady, Thomas P. 141. “That Dáil Éireann:

is appalled by the deteriorating situation in Syria, and in particular Aleppo;

condemns without reservation the horrendous violence and destruction which has led to a significant loss of life;

deplores the use of weapons with indiscriminate effects, such as incendiary weapons;

condemns the deliberate attacks on essential services such as hospitals and the attacks that have killed or injured people providing humanitarian assistance;

believes that the actions of the Syrian Government and the Russian military are conducted with complete disregard for the most fundamental principles of international human rights law; recognises that the murder of innocent civilians in Aleppo by the Syrian Government and the Russian military may amount to war crimes and should be investigated accordingly;

calls for:

- all sides in the conflict to abide by international human rights law and in particular the core principles of distinction, proportionality, and precaution;
- the Irish Government to formally make known to the Syrian and Russian Governments the Irish people’s revulsion to their actions in Aleppo;
- the Irish Government to support the call from Zeid Ra’ad Al Hussein, the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, that, ‘the UN Security Council should, without any further delay, adopt criteria to restrain members from using the veto when there are serious concerns that war crimes, crimes against humanity or genocide may have been committed’;
- the situation in Syria to be referred to the International Criminal Court;
- increased humanitarian aid to be deployed to refugee camps to assist those fleeing Syria and specific efforts to be made by the Irish Government to accommodate families and children in particular from this war-torn region; and
- renewed efforts to be made to broker peace in the country; and concludes that the Syrian population is highly vulnerable and 13.5 million people are in need of humanitarian assistance; 6.6 million are internally displaced, 4.6 million people in hard-to-reach areas, including over 480,000 besieged, whilst millions of others have fled Syria seeking refuge in neighbouring countries and beyond; Ireland, along with the International Community must stand in unity with the people of Syria and make a concerted effort to prevent further potential war crimes being committed and to work collectively to bring a lasting peace to the region.” — *Darragh O'Brien, Micheál Martin, Barry Cowen, Bobby Aylward, John Brassil, Declan Breathnach, James Browne, Mary Butler, Thomas Byrne, Jackie Cahill, Dara Calleary, Shane Cassells, Pat Casey, Jack Chambers, Lisa M. [19 October, 2016]

142. “That Dáil Éireann:

notes:

- that the war in Syria has become the most terrible humanitarian catastrophe of the 21st century; the number of deaths is estimated at in excess of 470,000; the number of internally displaced persons at somewhere between 7 and 11 million out of a population of 22 million, and the number of refugees is now over 4 million;
- that within this overall disaster the assault on Aleppo by the brutal Assad regime and the forces of Russian imperialism is a particularly appalling atrocity;
- the continued bombing, logistical support, arming of rebels, etc. by the USA, Britain, France, Saudi Arabia, Iran and Turkey and that the recent ceasefire was broken by the killing of over sixty Syrian soldiers by a USA air strike, possibly with British involvement;
- that this conflict began with a peaceful popular uprising against the Assad dictatorship in early 2011, as a continuation of the revolutionary movements in Tunisia and Egypt, but this revolt was immediately met with violent armed repression by the regime contributing to a spiral into civil war;
- that the descent into civil war created the opportunity for the USA and Russia, as the world's two major imperial powers, along with regional powers such as Turkey, Iran, and Saudi Arabia to meddle in the situation in the service of their own economic, political and strategic interests;
- parallel to the Assad/Russian assault on Aleppo, the Saudi Arabian bombing campaign in Yemen, proportionately no less deadly than that on Aleppo, and assisted by the USA;
- that this whole nightmare, including the horrific Da'ish (ISIS) regime, is the culmination of more than a century of imperialist intervention, occupation and war stretching from the notorious Sykes-Picot Agreement, which carved up the region in 1917, through to the disastrous USA-led Iraq War of 2003, the persistent unconditional support for the Israeli occupation of Palestine, along with the propping up of the el-Sisi regime in Egypt and the Saudi Arabia dictatorship, and the pervasive sale of arms to rotten governments throughout the area by big powers such as the USA, Russia, the UK, France and others; and
- that the other main and tragic consequence of this calamity is the appalling refugee crisis resulting from the unprecedented displacement of millions of people fleeing war and destruction which has been met with an utterly inhumane response by the European Union and has led to thousands of people, including many children, drowning in the Mediterranean Sea and tens of thousands incarcerated in effective concentration camps; and

calls on the Government to:

- make a clear and unambiguous public statement of opposition to all foreign military intervention in Syria and in the region as a whole;
- publicly call for all foreign powers, in particular Russia, the USA, the UK and France, to end military support for warring factions in the conflict and cease arms sales to the militarist and repressive regimes in the region, in particular Syria, Saudi Arabia, Iran, Israel and Turkey;
- urge a massive programme of humanitarian aid to the desperate peoples of Syria and Yemen on the basis that if it is possible to drop bombs and launch air strikes, it is possible to drop food, medical supplies and other aid in large quantities to the civilian population;
- call on the European Union to open its borders to the refugees and for Ireland to welcome refugees who, far from being a burden, will economically and culturally enrich our community; and
- cease providing facilities at Shannon Airport to any military power engaged in bombing of, or aggressive military intervention in, other nations.” — Richard Boyd Barrett, Gino Kenny, Brid Smith, Paul Murphy, Ruth Coppinger, Mick Barry.

143. “That Dáil Éireann:

notes that:

- it is a condition of eligibility under the Pyrite Remediation Scheme that an application to the Pyrite Resolution Board must be accompanied by a Building Condition Assessment with a Damage Condition Rating of two; and
- the Pyrite Resolution Board has advised that seven dwellings, which had a Damage Condition Rating of one when their Building Condition Assessments were first completed, and which were refused under the pyrite remediation scheme, have now progressed to a Damage Condition Rating of two; and calls on the Minister for Housing, Planning, Community and Local Government to extend the eligibility under the Pyrite Remediation Scheme so that Building Condition Assessments with a Damage Condition Rating of one can be included.” — Louise O'Reilly.

[25 October, 2016]

144. “That Dáil Éireann:

acknowledges that the issue of abortion in Ireland invokes strongly held and sincere views held across the broad spectrum of opinion in our society which requires understanding, compassion and mutual respect;

accepts that the enactment of the Protection of Life During Pregnancy Act 2013 by this House defines the circumstances and processes within which abortion in this State can be legally performed, giving long overdue effect to the 1992 ‘X-Case’ judgment by the Supreme Court of Ireland, allowing for limited abortion where pregnancy endangers a woman’s life through physical illness, including in an emergency and also through a risk of suicide;

recognises that the Eighth Amendment of the Constitution of Ireland prevents legislation being introduced to provide for the termination of pregnancy in the limited circumstances of rape, incest and fatal foetal abnormalities; supports the need for women in crisis pregnancies to have the right to receive accurate information by means of counselling that is impartial, non-directive and non-intimidatory and the introduction of legislation to ensure this standard is met by all agencies providing crisis pregnancy counselling;

believes the way to reduce the number of women seeking abortions is by way of State provision of comprehensive sex education, full access to safe birth control options, full access to child care and comprehensive support services, including financial support for single parents;

opposes the attitudes and forces in society which compel women to have abortions, and criminalise those who make this decision, and therefore accepts the need for the termination of pregnancy in the limited circumstances where a woman's life and mental health is at risk or in grave danger, and in cases of rape or incest and fatal foetal abnormalities, acknowledges the distress that is caused from having to travel outside of the State to access services; acknowledges that many women cannot afford to travel, and that others do not have the immigration status that allows them to travel; and calls on the Government to hold a referendum, for decision by the people, to repeal the Eighth Amendment of the Constitution of Ireland in order that the Oireachtas can enact legislation which allows for the termination of pregnancy in the limited circumstances where a woman's life and mental health is at risk or in grave danger; and in cases of rape, incest and fatal foetal abnormalities." — Louise O'Reilly.

[25 October, 2016]

145. "That Dáil Éireann:

notes that:

- the Comprehensive Economic and Trade Agreement (CETA) was signed by the European Union (EU) and Canada on 30th October, 2016, following a Belgian agreement that secured the backing of the regional government of Wallonia, and CETA will now be referred to national parliaments and the European Parliament for ratification;
- the European Commission and others applied immense pressure on the regional parliaments of Wallonia, Wallonia-Brussels and Brussels in response to the democratic votes opposing the provisional application and ratification of CETA, including ultimatums and threats of negative consequences for the regions if they maintained their opposition, in a way that demonstrated contempt for the democratic process;
- the strong position of the regional parliaments secured improved conditions for Belgium including an emergency exemption for Wallonia's agricultural sector designed to protect farmers from market turbulence; and an assurance that CETA would not affect the EU's 'precautionary principle';
- the Belgian agreement includes a statement that four of the seven Belgian regional governments will not ratify CETA if the Investment Court System (ICS) is included, and a referral of the investment court mechanism to the European Court of Justice in order to test if the ICS is compatible with the European treaties;

- CETA is part of the so-called new generation of free trade agreements, along with the Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership (TTIP), the Trade in Services Agreement (TiSA) and the Trans-Pacific Partnership (TPP) that move far beyond the lowering of tariffs and aim primarily to remove ‘non-tariff barriers to trade’ by reaching regulatory coherence or harmonisation between parties;
- CETA was negotiated entirely in secrecy and the proposed text was not made public until the draft had been finalised in September 2014;
- despite the fact that the European Court of Justice’s legal opinion on the legal basis of the EU-Singapore Free Trade Agreement (which has significant implications for the implementation of CETA) has not yet been completed, the EU and Canada have pushed for the ‘provisional application’ of CETA;
- a comprehensive academic study published in September 2016 by the Global Development and Environment Institute at Tufts University demonstrates that CETA will cause, inter alia, 200,000 job losses in the EU by 2023, significant wage compression, a decline in the labour share of income, a net loss of governments’ revenue, and net losses in gross domestic product of signature parties;
- non-government organisations and civil society and consumer groups have repeatedly expressed grave concerns about the weak protections in the CETA text for the environment, workers’ rights, public health, food safety and public procurement and the impact of ICS litigation on these standards and the democratic process;
- the Irish beef farming sector is particularly vulnerable to the effects of CETA including an influx of 50,000 tonnes of Canadian beef and 75,000 tonnes of pork entering the EU market; the impact of this influx on Irish beef producers will be exacerbated as a result of the Brexit vote due to the fact that Britain has been the largest importer of Canadian agri-produce and there has been no revision of quotas in response to the Brexit vote;
- the inclusion of an investor-state dispute settlement (ISDS) mechanism in these new-generation free trade agreements (whereby foreign corporations will have the right to sue national governments for compensation for loss of expected future profits in response to government actions that impact on the company’s activities in private tribunals) has provoked widespread public opposition to ratification of the agreements on both sides of the Atlantic;
- the proposed minor reforms of the ISDS system into the ICS in CETA and TTIP do not address any of the substantive concerns that have been raised, and the ICS awards foreign investors both substantive and procedural privileges in relation to all other actors in a society;
- the legal opinion of a senior council has pointed out that Irish ratification of a free trade agreement that includes an ISDS or ICS would possibly infringe Article 15.2.1 of the Constitution of Ireland, which vests the sole power to make law in the Oireachtas; certainly infringe Article 34.1 of the Constitution, which vests the power to dispense justice in the Irish domestic courts; and certainly infringe Article 34.3.2 of the Constitution which makes the High Court and appellate courts above it the sole Court in which a law may be questioned;
- pursuant to Articles 34.2 and 34.3.2 of the Constitution of Ireland, a referendum of Irish citizens to change the Constitution in relation to the subjection of the Irish State to an ICS is legally required; and
- despite Article 29.5.2 of the Constitution of Ireland, which states that the terms of any international agreement involving a charge upon public funds must have been approved by Dáil Éireann, and despite the Seanad Éireann motion rejecting the provisional application that was adopted on 5th October, 2016, the Irish Government has disappointingly signed up to the provisional application of CETA;

acknowledges that:

- Seanad Éireann has voted to reject the provisional application of CETA, and the Irish Congress of Trade Unions as well as Irish environmental, public health, food safety and consumer rights organisations have called for the rejection of CETA and TTIP;
- other national and regional parliaments in Belgium, France, Slovenia, Luxembourg and the Netherlands have likewise passed resolutions against the adoption or provisional application of CETA and TTIP;
- more than 3.5 million European citizens have signed a petition calling on European authorities not to enter into the CETA and TTIP agreements;
- more than 2,000 local and regional governments have declared themselves TTIP and CETA-free zones in 13 EU member states, including Dublin City Council and Clare County Council; and
- more than 100 legal experts and academics from across Europe have signed a statement calling for an ISDS or ICS to be excluded from the terms of CETA and TTIP; and

calls on the Government:

- to withdraw from the provisional application of CETA;
- to uphold Article 29.5.2 of the Constitution of Ireland, which states that the terms of any international agreement involving a charge upon public funds must have been approved by Dáil Éireann;
- not to ratify CETA or any free trade agreement which includes the subjection of the Irish State to an ICS or ISDS mechanism;
- to hold a referendum of the Irish people, in accordance with the legal requirements of the Constitution of Ireland (Articles 34.1 and 34.3.2) in relation to the subjection of the Irish State to the ICS included in CETA; and
- to defend the principle of national sovereignty and subsidiarity in relation to the EU's trade agenda.” — *Maurice Quinlivan, Martin Kenny, David Cullinane, Gerry Adams, Pat Buckley, John Brady, Seán Crowe, Pearse Doherty, Dessie Ellis, Martin J. 147. “That Dáil Éireann:

condemns without reservation the brutal and systematic attack by the Islamic State of Iraq and Syria (ISIS) which commenced on 3rd August, 2014, against the Yazidis in Sinjar, Iraq, the intent of which would appear to have been to destroy the Yazidis of Sinjar, composing the majority of the world’s Yazidi population;

is appalled at the actions of ISIS which resulted in mass executions; the selling of women and children at slave markets for the purposes of sexual and domestic slavery; brutal physical, mental and emotional trauma; forced conversion to Islam; degrading and inhumane treatment; and the forcible transfer of children from their own families to ISIS fighters;

further condemns the deliberate destruction of Yazidi shrines and temples; recognises that thousands of Yazidis remain in captivity under ISIS control;

notes that the British Parliament and the European Parliament have passed motions recognising that ISIS have committed genocide against the Yazidis; takes note of the United Nations mandated report ‘They Came to Destroy: ISIS Crimes Against the Yazidis’ which found that ‘ISIS has committed the crime of genocide as well as multiple crimes against humanity and war crimes against the Yazidis, thousands of whom are held captive in the Syrian Arab Republic where they are subjected to almost unimaginable horrors’; and

calls for:

- the Government to explore all possibilities of ensuring that those responsible for breaches of international law, in particular of humanitarian law and human rights law, where such breaches may constitute war crimes, crimes against humanity or genocide, be brought to justice and to continue to work within the United Nations, together with others, in order to seek to ensure that there shall be no impunity for such crimes;
- the United Nations Security Council to take immediate action to prevent further possible acts of genocide and crimes against humanity;
- Ireland to support the Iraqi authorities and international efforts for the protection of the human rights of the Yazidis and other persons and minority populations, under threat from ISIS crimes, in accordance with the Charter of the United Nations and international law, including applicable international human rights law, international refugee law, and international humanitarian law, stressing in this regard the important role the United Nations plays in leading and coordinating this effort;
- the international community to give effective and appropriate implementation to the measures set out in United Nations Security Council resolutions 2249 and 2253 aimed at removing the global and unprecedented threat to international peace and security posed by ISIS; and
- Ireland to support the implementation of the 2014 programme for national reconciliation adopted by the Government of Iraq and to work, together with its international partners, in support of the Secretary-General of the United Nations and the Special Envoy of the Secretary-General to achieve a political resolution to the conflict in Syria based on the principles of the Geneva Communiqué of 30th June, 2012 and resolution 2254 adopted by the Security Council of the United Nations on 18th December, 2015.” — *Darragh O'Brien, Micheál Martin and all other members of the Fianna Fáil parliamentary party, an Taoiseach and all other members of the Fine Gael parliamentary party, Denis Naughten, Aire Cumarsáide, Gníomhaithe ar son na hAeráide agus Comhshaoil, Shane Ross, Aire Iompair, Turasóireachta, agus Spóirt, Katherine Zappone, Aire Leanaí agus Gnóthaí Óige, John Halligan, Aire Stáit, Finian McGrath, Aire Stáit, Sean Canney, Aire Stáit, Kevin Boxer Moran, Gerry Adams and all other members of the Sinn Féin parliamentary party, Brendan Howlin and all other members of the Labour parliamentary party, Eamon Ryan, Catherine Martin, Michael Fitzmaurice, Thomas P. I. To insert the following after “subjected to almost unimaginable horrors’;”:

“further notes that:

- Christians, Yazidis and other religious minorities in Iraq and Syria will be exterminated or forced to migrate solely for their religion by the ‘Islamic State’ (Daesh) and other militant extremists;
- Christians and other religious minorities in Iraq and Syria have been an integral part of the region’s cultural fabric for millennia;
- since 2003, minority groups including Christians and Yazidis in Iraq and Syria have been the target of systematic violence, with millions fleeing their ancestral homes;
- Christians, Yazidis and other religious minorities in Iraq and Syria have been murdered, subjugated, and suffered grievous bodily and psychological harm, including sexual enslavement and abuse, inflicted in a deliberate and calculated manner in violation of the United Nations Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide; and
- genocide is a crime under international law that shall be punished, whether committed by ‘constitutionally responsible rulers, public officials or private individuals’ as provided by the United Nations Convention on the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide;” — *Mattie McGrath, Noel Grealish, Michael Collins, Michael Harty, Danny Healy-Rae, Michael J. notes that:

- the primary purpose of the National Asset Management Agency Act 2009 is specified as follows: ‘to address the serious threat to the economy and the stability of credit institutions in the State generally and the need for the maintenance and stabilisation of the financial system in the State’; and
- a further purpose of the 2009 Act is ‘to contribute to the social and economic development of the State’;

acknowledges that:

- at the time of the 2009 Act there was an economic crisis which dictated the primary purpose of the Act;

- in 2017 there is a housing and homelessness crisis and the primary purpose of the 2009 Act must be updated to reflect this crisis; and
- sales of National Asset Management Agency (NAMA) assets to vulture funds have undermined the secondary purpose enshrined in the 2009 Act with regard to the social and economic development of the State; and

calls for:

- an immediate halt on further asset sales by NAMA pending a thorough examination of how NAMA assets can be utilised to prioritise the social development of the State in the context of the current housing crisis; and
- an update to the legislation which would change the primary purpose of the National Asset Management Agency Act 2009 to contribute to the social and economic development of the State.” — Catherine Murphy, Róisín Shortall.

notes that:

- the latest figures from the Central Bank of Ireland show over 79,562 private home mortgages as being in arrears, of these, 34,551 are in arrears of over 720 days;
- the latest Central Bank of Ireland figures show that legal proceedings to enforce the debt/security on a private home mortgage were issued in 4,278 cases up to end of September 2016 and several thousand more are presently before the courts;
- in the High Court case AIB v Counihan (2014), Mr. Justice Barrett ruled on 21st December, 2016, that Council Directive 93/13/EEC applies to the situation of private home mortgages and so European Union (EU) standards of consumer protection apply to all private home mortgages;
- buyers of mortgages for private homes/personal consumption are considered consumers under EU law and so are entitled to protection under the European Communities (Unfair Terms in Consumer Contracts) Regulations, (SI 27/1995) which implements Council Directive 93/13/EEC on unfair terms in consumer contracts; and
- judges or county registrars dealing with such cases must carry out an ‘own motion assessment’ which requires judges and registrars to make a proportionality and fairness assessment of compliance with EU law on a case-by-case basis;

acknowledges:

- the implications of European Court of Justice case Aziz (2013) which requires the fairness of contracts to be assessed on a case-by-case basis in relation to private mortgages and home reposessions;
- the implications of the European Court of Justice case Kušionová (2014) which requires unfair contracts in cases of home repossession to be assessed in light of the fundamental protection afforded to the ‘home’ under the European Charter of Fundamental Rights;
- that the present judicial system does not currently have the resources required to adjudicate in these cases;
- that county registrars and judges will require resources in order to implement EU law and ensure correct analysis of consumer protections when conducting ‘own motion assessments’; and

- that the State is likely to be liable if any repossessions occur without proper implementation of EU law which requires ‘own motion assessment’ in these cases; and

calls for:

- a moratorium on all home repossession cases currently going through the judicial system;
- the immediate allocation of resources to ensure county registrars, judges and other research staff can fulfil their obligations under EU law; and
- an amendment to legislation to prevent homelessness occurring due to tenants in buy-to-let mortgages, as 20 per cent of all buy-to-let mortgages are in arrears, with 10 percent of such mortgages (14,518) 720 days in arrears.” — Eamon Ryan, Catherine Martin.

notes with extreme alarm and disapproval the many racist, divisive and dangerous policy commitments and statements made by the President of the United States of America, Donald Trump, both before and since his inauguration; condemns, in particular, policies, statements or executive orders from President Trump, which:

- target or promote hatred, prejudice and discrimination against refugees, immigrants, muslims, women, LGBT people or other specific nationalities, such as citizens of Mexico, Syria, Libya, Iraq, Iran, Sudan, Yemen and Somalia;
- threaten to escalate military or other forms of conflict in countries such as Syria, Yemen, Palestine or elsewhere; and
- threaten to undermine international efforts to combat climate change;

specifically condemns the following executive orders and commitments made by President Trump:

- the suspension of the Refugee Admissions Programme, the drastic cut in the number of refugee admissions, and the order prohibiting entry to the US of citizens from Syria, Libya, Iran, Iraq, Yemen, Somalia and Sudan, orders which represent a breach of the 1951 Geneva Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees;
- measures targeting undocumented migrants, including an estimated 50,000 undocumented Irish, and undermining the protections afforded those migrants in ‘sanctuary’ cities and counties, or attempting to particularly associate undocumented migrants with criminality;
- the decision to commence the construction of a wall along the border between the US and Mexico and ‘make Mexico pay for it’;
- the decision to ban funding to foreign non-governmental organisations that perform or even give information about abortion; and
- the 30 day review aimed at upgrading US nuclear, missile and military capabilities;

and resolves to express its disapproval by:

- calling on the Taoiseach not to visit the White House on St. Patrick’s Day and to make a public statement explaining the reasons for this decision; and
- calling on the Government to review its co-operation with US immigration authorities operating in Irish airports, and to ensure that no Irish public officials facilitate or co-operate with US immigration policies that breach the 1951 Geneva Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees, or in any way target or discriminate against particular religious, ethnic or national groups, and calls for airport workers to be supported by their trade unions if they refuse to co-operate with the executive order.”

Amendment:

1. (a) To insert the following after “orders which represent a breach of the 1951 Geneva Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees”:

“and which further extend the measures contained in the Visa Waiver Program Improvement and Terrorist Travel Prevention Act signed by former-President Obama in 2015 which rendered individuals who had visited one of those seven countries in the previous five years ineligible for the US Visa Waiver Program;”

- (b) To delete all words from “the decision to commence” down to and including “make Mexico pay for it;” and substitute the following:

“— the specific promise to ‘immediately’ deport from the US between 2 and 3 million undocumented migrants, a promise which represents a further consolidation of existing US policy in this area, which saw 2.5 million undocumented migrants deported between 2009 and 2015, during former-President Obama’s term of office;

— the decision to consolidate and extend the existing Mexico-United States barrier, which currently consists of approximately 980 kilometres of barriers between the two countries;” and

- (c) To insert the following after “if they refuse to co-operate with the executive order”:

“— calling on the Government to immediately and permanently ban all military landings at Irish airports and military overflights through Irish airspace, and to acknowledge that to give foreign militaries, in particular the US military, carte blanche to use Shannon Airport as a US military airbase is to facilitate the wars that force individuals, like those currently being targeted by President Trump, to flee their homelands and seek asylum elsewhere.” — Clare Daly, Mick Wallace, Thomas Pringle, Joan Collins.

- the executive orders signed by the President of the United States of America, Donald Trump, on Friday 27th January, 2017, that put in place a targeted ban on refugees and migrants from certain countries;
- the Aviation (Preclearance) Act 2009; and
- the 2008 Agreement Between the Government of the United States of America and the Government of Ireland on Air Transport Preclearance;

calls on the Government to:

- conduct an urgent review of the preclearance system operating in Ireland and take appropriate action, up to and including suspension of the preclearance agreement, where there might be a reasonable chance that a person's rights under the Constitution of Ireland, European Union (EU) law, the European Convention on Human Rights or the Treaty on the Functioning of the European Union, may be under threat;
- provide appropriate information on the applicable law and procedures to any person refused preclearance on the basis of the operation of the executive order and give any person refused preclearance the opportunity to seek legal advice and legal representation;
- clarify the role of Gardai and immigration officials in the US preclearance process, to ensure that in the exercise of their public functions, a person's rights under the Constitution of Ireland, the European Convention on Human Rights, EU law or international human rights law, will not be violated;
- specify the basis upon which withdrawal from the preclearance agreement would be contemplated by the Government; and
- raise the issue with the EU as a matter of urgency, to develop a joint response to the executive orders; and calls on the Taoiseach to make an unequivocal statement on the matter.” — Catherine Murphy, Róisín Shortall.

152. “That Dáil Éireann:

notes that:

- the Direct Provision System was introduced as a ‘temporary measure’ in 2000, but 16 years later it is still in place;
- in 2000, the State introduced a weekly allowance for those in the Direct Provision System of €19.10 per adult (€15.60 per week for each child), this allowance has remained the same for 16 years and it is impossible to live any sort of decent life on this income;
- many asylum seekers spend years in the Direct Provision System, trapped in conditions that are damaging to the health, welfare and life-chances of those forced to endure them;
- as of 2016 there are almost 5,000 people in the Direct Provision System, of which up to 18 per cent have been in the Direct Provision System for more than seven years, up to 20 per cent for five to seven years and the average length of stay is more than three years;

- residents in the Direct Provision System are denied the elementary right to cook in their own rooms;
- more than one third of those in the Direct Provision System are children and teenagers and these conditions are especially damaging to children, who are isolated from their peers and denied equal access to third-level education;
- the Irish Human Rights and Equality Commission described the Direct Provision System as a severe violation of human rights;
- in 2014, the outgoing Ombudsman for Children, Emily Logan, said the ‘treatment of children living in Direct Provision is an issue of ongoing concern which the State urgently needs to address, children should not grow up in Direct Provision’; and
- with the the running of Direct Provision System centres contracted out to private companies, the entire system has become a State-subsidised multi-million euro industry, in which private businesses make huge profits out of the human misery of their ‘customers’; and

calls on the Government to:

- abolish the Direct Provision System forthwith, i.e., within the next three months;
- grant all asylum seekers the right to work while their claims are being processed;
- allow all asylum seekers access to third-level education on the same basis as all other young people and adults; and

agrees that:

- ongoing professional development is paramount to ensuring that members of An Garda Síochána are trained for the challenges for 21st century policing;
- unfortunately recent scandals exposed in An Garda Síochána have damaged public confidence in the force; and
- independent commissions on police forces have successfully worked in Northern Ireland (Independent Commission on Policing for Northern Ireland), in the UK and in the USA; and calls for the establishment of an Independent Commission of An Garda Síochána:

- that would examine how to:
 - improve basic training;
 - enhance career progression of the force; and
 - introduce a proper professional development structure that would allow for far better supervisory mechanisms to be put in place; and
- which should result in a much improved, accountable management structure that would greatly improve Garda services to citizens, result in boosting morale and building up trust and confidence.” — *Jim O'Callaghan, Bobby Aylward, John Brassil, Declan Breathnach, James Browne, Mary Butler, Thomas Byrne, Jackie Cahill, Dara Calleary, Pat Casey, Shane Cassells, Jack Chambers, Lisa M. 159. “That Dáil Éireann:

recognises that:

- Allied Irish Banks (AIB) is a 99.9 per cent State-owned bank which received significant sums of public funds by way of a bail-out;
- the Government has a responsibility to Irish citizens regarding the financial management of AIB as a result of the bail-out;
- unless International Accounting Standard (IAS) 39 is corrected, any such floatation could potentially be fraudulent;
- in the context of Brexit and other pressures facing our economy, it is vital to ensure we maximise the return on our bail-out investment in AIB; and
- a decision of such magnitude should be taken by democratic means and is not a matter for Government to arbitrarily decide; and

calls on the Government:

- to produce a cost-benefit analysis regarding any proposed share sale of AIB, clearly laying out the benefits or otherwise of a share sale now, at a future point, or not at all;
- to commit to providing the results of that cost-benefit analysis to every member of Dáil Éireann for consideration;
- to undertake a legal assessment of the implications of IAS 39; and
- not to proceed with any share sale unless it is established, by way of a Dáil vote, that such a sale has majority Dáil Éireann support.” — Catherine Murphy, Róisín Shortall.

160. “That Dáil Éireann:

notes that:

- 937,000 breath tests were wrongly recorded on the official Garda digital record system, Police Using Leading Systems Effectively (PULSE), and that the existence of a problem in this regard was communicated to Garda Commissioner Nóirín O’Sullivan in 2014;
- 14,700 people were subject to wrongful convictions due to Garda errors;
- Commissioner O’Sullivan failed to adequately explain the cause of these errors;
- high-ranking members of An Garda Síochána have recently been accused of engaging in a systematic campaign to smear the character and reputation of Sergeant Maurice McCabe and other Garda whistleblowers; and
- there has been a resulting erosion of public confidence and trust in An Garda Síochána, including a lack of public confidence in Commissioner O’Sullivan and senior Garda management to investigate possible Garda malpractice and/or corruption involving, in particular, the carrying out of breath tests, processing offences through the courts, and handling complaints and protected disclosures from members of An Garda Síochána;

acknowledges that:

- An Garda Síochána should be held accountable, in terms of their adherence to professional and ethical standards; and
- section 11 of the Garda Síochána Act 2005 states that:
 - a person who holds the office of Garda Commissioner may be removed from office by the Government but only for stated reasons, including:
 - the person has failed to perform the functions of the office with due diligence and effectiveness; and
 - the person’s removal from office would, in the Government’s opinion, be in the best interests of An Garda Síochána; and
 - on notifying under section 12(1) a person who holds the office of Garda Commissioner that the Government intends to consider removing him or her from office, the Government may immediately suspend the person from duty;

further notes that Commissioner O’Sullivan has stated that she plans to continue in her position, even if there is a Dáil vote of no confidence in her; and

calls on the Government to:

- use the powers available to them under the Garda Síochána Act 2005 to immediately suspend and then remove from office the current Garda Commissioner, Nóirín O’Sullivan;
- independently investigate the involvement of members of senior Garda management in alleged malpractice and/or corruption;
- urgently review the situations in which people may be convicted for certain crimes based on the word of a Garda Superintendent; and
- urgently review how An Garda Síochána can be made democratically accountable to the communities they serve, including, the election of democratically accountable bodies, empowered to decide on how policing is implemented, how policing resources are spent and to hold An Garda Síochána accountable for their actions.” — Richard Boyd Barrett, Bríd Smith, Gino Kenny, Ruth Coppinger, Mick Barry, Paul Murphy.

161. “That Dáil Éireann:

- is appalled by the deteriorating situation in Syria;
- condemns without reservation the horrendous violence and destruction which has led to a significant loss of life;
- in particular, condemns the recent suspected chemical attacks in Idlib, Syria, which reportedly killed dozens of people, including children;
- condemns the illegal, unilateral airstrikes by the United States of America (USA), which used 59 Tomahawk cruise missiles to target the Shayrat airbase on Friday, 7th April, 2017, which reportedly killed nine civilians, including four children in areas near the airbase;
- deplores the use of weapons with indiscriminate effects, such as incendiary weapons, and deplores all forms of bombing;
- condemns the deliberate attacks on essential services such as hospitals and the attacks that have killed or injured people providing humanitarian assistance;
- believes that the bombing campaign carried out by the Syrian Government, Russian Military, USA Military, Australian Military, Canadian Military, Danish Military, French Military, Jordanian Military, Dutch Military, British Military, Saudi Arabian Military, Bahraini Military, Turkish Military, United Arab Emirates Military and the Syrian rebel forces are conducted with complete disregard for the most fundamental principles of international human rights law; and
- recognises that the murder of innocent civilians by the various factions may amount to war crimes and should be punished accordingly;

calls for:

- all sides in the conflict to abide by international human rights law and put an end to all bombing of Syria;
- the Irish Government to formally make known to all governments that have engaged in the bombing of Syria, the Irish people’s revulsion of their actions in Syria;
- increased humanitarian aid to be deployed to refugee camps to assist those fleeing Syria, Afghanistan and Iraq, and specific efforts to be made by the Irish Government to accommodate families and children in particular from this war-torn region; and
- renewed efforts to be made to broker peace in the country by taking a neutral position and by condemning all acts of violence, including all forms of bombings by all parties to the conflict; and concludes that:

- the Syrian population is highly vulnerable and 13.5 million people are in need of humanitarian assistance, 6.6 million are internally displaced, 4.6 million people are in hard-to-reach areas, including over 480,000 besieged, whilst millions of others have fled Syria seeking refuge in neighbouring countries and beyond; and

- Ireland, along with the international community, must stand in unity with the people of Syria and make a concerted effort to prevent further potential war crimes being committed and to work collectively to bring a lasting peace to the region.” — Mick Wallace, Clare Daly, Maureen O'Sullivan, Thomas Pringle, Catherine Connolly, Joan Collins.

162. “That Dáil Éireann:

- is appalled by the reported use of chemical weapons in Khan Sheikun, Syria on 4th April, 2017, which killed dozens of people, including children;
- reiterates that United Nations Security Council (UNSC) Resolutions 2118 (2013) and 2209 (2015), which condemned in the strongest terms the use of any toxic chemical as a weapon in Syria, affirmed that the use of chemical weapons constituted a serious violation of international law and stressed that those responsible for the use of such weapons must be held accountable;
- recognises that the Organisation for the Prohibition of Chemical Weapons (OPCW) and the United Nations Joint Investigative Mechanism (JIM), was mandated by the UNSC to identify to the greatest extent feasible individuals, entities, groups or governments who were perpetrators, organisers, sponsors or otherwise involved in the use of chemicals as weapons, including chlorine or any other toxic chemical, in Syria;
- notes the allegations of the use of Chemical Weapons Convention (CWC) listed chemical weapons and/or toxic chemicals as weapons in Syria received by the JIM from member states between December 2015 and August 2016 include sarin (13), sulphur mustard (12), VX (4), chlorine (41) and other toxic chemicals or agents (61);
- recalls the findings of the JIM in its August 2016 report into eight cases of suspected chlorine attacks and one sulphur mustard attack, which occurred between April 2014 and September 2015, which accuses both the Syrian army and other actors, including ISIS/Da'esh, of carrying out these attacks;
- condemns these chemical weapons attacks without reservation;
- welcomes that the OPCW is investigating the incident in Khan Sheikun under the on-going mandate of the OPCW Fact-Finding Mission;
- notes that the OPCW has stated that it cannot and will not release information about an on-going investigation; that this policy exists to preserve the integrity of the investigatory process and its results, as well as to ensure the safety and security of the OPCW experts and personnel involved;
- states its disgust at the complete lack of adherence to the norms of international law by the warring parties in Syria;
- condemns all direct and indirect foreign involvement in the conflict; and
- welcomes that the Irish Government has continued to donate to humanitarian efforts and relief programmes in Syria, and in refugee camps in neighbouring countries, and its pledge, on 5th April, 2017, of a further €25 million to help the Syrian humanitarian effort in 2017;

calls for:

- the UNSC to immediately adopt criteria to curtail members from using a veto when there are serious concerns that war crimes and crimes against humanity may have been committed, and to work towards further reform of the UNSC, including the abolishment of permanent positions and the ability of any country to have a veto;
- the UNSC to refer the situation in Syria to the International Criminal Court and to ensure that anyone who is suspected of committing war crimes is prosecuted;
- the Irish Government to formally make known to the Syrian government, and the governments of all countries directly or indirectly involved in the war, of the Irish people's disgust at suspected war crimes in the conflict, and to condemn these actions and the continued loss of life in Syria without reservation;
- the Syrian government to unconditionally abide by its obligations as a State Party to the CWC and as a member state of the OPCW;
- the Irish Government to assist in renewed efforts to establish a ceasefire in the conflict and efforts to establish a peace process; and
- the Irish Government to fulfil all its humanitarian and aid commitments to Syria and Syrian refugees, including the resettlement and relocation of Syrian refugees in Ireland; and concludes that the ongoing conflict in Syria has created one of the worst humanitarian crises in modern times and Ireland, as a priority, must assist efforts to end the conflict, to prosecute those suspected of committing war crimes, and to tackle the huge humanitarian crisis that this brutal conflict has caused.” — *Seán Crowe, Pat Buckley, Gerry Adams, John Brady, David Cullinane, Pearse Doherty, Dessie Ellis, Martin J. 163. “That Dáil Éireann:

- is appalled by the recent suspected chemical attack in Idlib, Syria which killed dozens of people, including children;
- notes that the Organisation for Prohibition of Chemical Weapons (OPCW) and the United Nations Joint Investigative Mechanism (JIM), which is mandated by the United Nations Security Council (UNSC), found sufficient evidence that the Syrian government has deployed chemical weapons on previous occasions;
- further notes that Ireland has been to the fore in promoting a code of conduct regarding UNSC action in relation to genocide, crimes against humanity, war crimes, and has also supported initiatives aimed at restraining the use of the veto in situations of mass atrocity;
- condemns without reservation the use of chemical weapons which are a violation of international law;
- believes that the actions of the Syrian government are an affront to humanity and are conducted with flagrant disregard for international human rights law; and
- further condemns the actions taken by the Russian military in Syria, which supports President Basahar Al Assad's regime, and also its continued use of its veto at the UNSC to block sanctions being imposed on Syria;

calls for:

- the OPCW to carry out a full investigation to formally determine the use of chemical weapons in Idlib, Syria;
- the UNSC to immediately adopt criteria to curtail members from using the veto where there are serious concerns that war crimes and crimes against humanity may have been committed;
- the UNSC to refer the situation in Syria to the International Criminal Court;
- accountability for war crimes, such as the use of chemical weapons;
- those suspected of committing such heinous crimes to be investigated fully and to face the full rigours of the law if found guilty;
- the Irish Government to formally make known to the Syrian government our horror at their actions and condemn them without reservation;
- continued support for the people of Syria and to honour the commitment as outlined in the Programme for Partnership Government to ‘continue to play an active role at the European Union Foreign Affairs Council, the OSCE and through the UN, in seeking diplomatic resolutions to crises and conflict, with particular reference to Syria’; and
- renewed efforts by the international community to broker lasting peace in Syria; and

concludes that:

- the ongoing conflict in Syria has created one of the world’s worst humanitarian crises; the people of Syria have been subjected to the most heinous and appalling atrocities, hundreds of thousands have lost their lives, whilst millions have been displaced; the use of chemical weapons demonstrates that the Syrian government operates without any regard for human life; and
- it is therefore incumbent upon Ireland to speak out against such abhorrent acts of violence and to call upon the international bodies, including the United Nations and the European Union, to use every mechanism at its disposal, or where necessary adopt new mechanisms, to ensure that those suspected of committing such crimes are fully investigated and where found guilty are treated accordingly under law.” — *Darragh O'Brien, Micheál Martin and all other members of the Fianna Fáil parliamentary party, an Taoiseach and all other members of the Fine Gael parliamentary party, Katherine Zappone, Aire Leanaí agus Gnóthaí Óige, Brendan Howlin and all other members of the Labour parliamentary party, Róisín Shortall, Catherine Murphy, Michael J. 164. “That Dáil Éireann:

calls on the Government to seek the following amendment of paragraph 11 of the European Council (Article 50) (29th April, 2017) draft guidelines following the United Kingdom’s notification under Article 50 of the Treaty on European Union to exit the European Union (EU):

- the Union has consistently supported the goal of peace and reconciliation enshrined in the Good Friday Agreement, and continuing to support and protect the achievements, benefits and commitments of the Good Friday Agreement in all its parts will remain of paramount importance;

- in view of the unique position and special circumstances on the island of Ireland, flexible and imaginative solutions will be required, including the aim of avoiding a hardening of the border, including looking at designated special status for Northern Ireland within the EU, while respecting the integrity of the Union legal order as well as the Good Friday Agreement;
- given that the Good Friday Agreement is a bilateral treaty, binding in international law, between the United Kingdom and Ireland, after the United Kingdom leaves the Union, no agreement between the EU and the United Kingdom may apply to Northern Ireland without the agreement of Ireland and the United Kingdom; and
- in this context, the Union should also recognise existing bilateral agreements and arrangements between the United Kingdom and Ireland which are compatible with EU law.” — *Gerry Adams, John Brady, Pat Buckley, David Cullinane, Seán Crowe, Pearse Doherty, Dessie Ellis, Martin J. 165. “That Dáil Éireann:

- acknowledges the Climate Change Advisory Council’s first report which states that achievement of the national mitigation objective, of an 80 per cent reduction in emissions compared to 1990 levels by 2050, will require a major societal and economic transformation;
- acknowledges the wide consensus internationally that society’s transformation away from fossil fuels must ensure fairness and justice for, and the participation of, the groups and communities most affected by the scale of the change required;
- agrees, in relation to transition and the workforce, with the principle expressed in the preamble to the Paris Agreement, namely that countries should, in their actions under the Agreement, take into account ‘the imperatives of a just transition of the workforce and the creation of decent work and quality jobs in accordance with nationally defined development priorities’;
- notes the emergence in many countries of initiatives, policy and legislative proposals to give effect to the concept of a just transition;
- further notes the proposal at European Union (EU) level for a directive to enhance cost-effective emission reductions, low-carbon investments and which promotes just transition funding, to support local communities and workers in regions impacted most strongly by the ongoing transition to decarbonised economies; and
- agrees, in relation to Ireland, that in addition to effecting its greenhouse gas reductions in the manner required by the Paris Agreement, that a national-level commitment to pursue a just transition derives from the State’s obligation to achieve the ‘national transition objective’ as defined in the Climate Action and Low Carbon Development Act 2015, and in doing so, to have regard, under section 3 of that Act, to ‘climate justice’;

further acknowledges:

- the 2016 Programme for a Partnership Government, which states that ‘climate change is the global challenge of our generation, and requires radical and ambitious thinking to respond to a changing environment’ and that Ireland is to be ‘repositioned to give global leadership in this area’;
- that peat industry workers have a proud history of providing energy sovereignty to the Irish nation and many are the third and fourth generations of their families working on the bogs since the 1940s;
- that 1,700 jobs are directly dependent on the peat industry in peat plants, seasonal work in extracting peat, retail, professional and briquette factories, and a further 2,500 indirect jobs are dependent including Bord na Móna support departments, external suppliers and contractors; and
- that the Public Service Obligation (PSO) levy, which provides a circa €115.5 million to €123 million subsidy to the peat plants, will end in the first half of 2020 and the urgent need to use such public funds to ensure a just transition for workers currently working in the industry; and

calls on the Government to:

- replace the PSO on peat fired generation from 2019 with a just transition levy, which will re-allocate this €120 million to a new replacement levy that will fund the retraining and social protection of workers and communities affected by the closure of the peat industry;
- conduct a proactively managed, planned decline of the peat industry, in conjunction with Bord na Móna and peat industry workers, and ensure a just transition for workers and dependent communities into new areas of low-carbon employment;
- seek inclusion for the Irish peat industry in just transition funding at EU level;
- consult with communities and workers to explore investment opportunities that will enable midland regions, dependent on employment in the peat industry, to find renewable economic livelihoods with a long-term future in line with the 2016 Programme for a Partnership Government which states ‘as part of the transition to a low carbon society, that citizens and communities are active participants in the transition, with robust public and stakeholder engagement in energy policy and effective community consultation on energy infrastructure developments’;
- set up a Just Transition Commission that will facilitate talks between trade unions, employer organisations, affected communities and climate transition experts to oversee and deliver a durable, sustainable and fair transition to a low carbon economy for workers in the Irish fossil-fuel sector;
- work with all affected parties to support the peat industry and its workforce in moving immediately to a low carbon future, as part of an overall long-term plan to end peat extraction for industrial and horticultural use by 2020 as part of a reviewed National Peatlands Strategy; and
- take a decisive lead to create employment in electricity generation, energy storage, community energy, transport infrastructure, energy efficiency and sustainable heating for homes and businesses, and rehabilitation of our bogs and national habitats.” — Eamon Ryan, Catherine Martin.

166. “That Dáil Éireann:

notes that:

- the justification for the introduction of the Financial Emergency Measures in the Public Interests Act 2009 was the economic crisis and financial emergency that beset the country;
- by the Government’s own pronouncements the financial emergency has passed;
- the Financial Emergency Measures in the Public Interests Acts 2009-2015 have been used to cut public sector workers’ pay and pensions;
- emergency legislation that curtails the rights of workers to free collective bargaining can no longer be justified; and
- the continued use of emergency legislation, in absence of an actual emergency, is an abuse of Government power; and calls on the Government to repeal the Financial Emergency Measures in the Public Interests Acts 2009-2015 and allow public sector unions negotiate without the sanction of emergency legislation.” — *Brid Smith, Gino Kenny, Richard Boyd Barrett, Paul Murphy, Mick Barry, Ruth Coppinger, Clare Daly, Mick Wallace, Thomas P. 167. “That Dáil Éireann:

recognises:

- that full employment, where possible, is the aim of all parties in this House;
- the need for employment support schemes such as the Community Employment (CE) scheme, Tús, the Rural Social Scheme (RSS) and JobPath;
- that employment support schemes have a dual function of employment activation and social inclusion;
- that employment support schemes have assisted thousands of people into employment;
- that communities throughout Ireland have benefited immensely from work carried out under employment support schemes;
- that employment support schemes have often enabled delivery of services and local supports where State provision of same has not been fully accessible and that such schemes have been a partner of the State in supporting some of the most vulnerable communities;
- that many non-profit organisations and charities rely heavily upon employment support staff in a cycle of community provision, individual retraining and upskilling, and placement;
- that the activity facilitated by employment support schemes is worthwhile and valuable in its own right, completely aside from its contribution towards other job activation or longer term goals; and
- that those who participate in employment support schemes make a valuable contribution to their communities and assist in providing often much needed and vital services in their locality; and

calls for:

- the Government to ensure that the social inclusion element of employment support schemes is recognised and supported;
- the Government to recognise that participation in employment support schemes such as the CE scheme, Tús and the RSS is dignified and gainful employment;
- the Minister for Social Protection to immediately review the impact that JobPath is having on CE schemes in particular, with a view to ensuring that those who wish to continue to participate on CE schemes are able to do so, and to also ensure that JobPath is not draining CE schemes of participants;
- an appropriate assessment be carried out at time of entry to JobPath, or shortly afterwards in a form of probationary period, to ascertain whether the individual is best suited to the proposed programme, or whether further engagement and participation in a CE scheme would be more beneficial;
- the Minister for Social Protection to immediately amend the rule to enable a participant in a JobPath programme, where they have been serving in a CE scheme immediately prior, to continue involvement in a CE scheme in parallel, subject to the requirements of availability to the JobPath programme and where it would not be detrimental to same;
- the Minister for Social Protection to immediately amend the rule whereby a person can only participate on Tús for a twelve month period and once completed is unable to participate again on Tús for three years;
- the Minister for Social Protection to ensure that the review of participation limits for older people on employment support schemes is cognisant of the complexities that older people face in trying to access or re-enter the labour market, and that employment support schemes can be the mechanism whereby older people can continue to make a contribution to society up until they reach retirement age;
- the Minister for Social Protection to ensure that the budget for employment support schemes is sufficient to cover consumable services and materials, including insurance; and
- the Government to ensure that employment support schemes are adequately resourced, including training and continuous professional development, as appropriate, for supervisors.” — *James Lawless, Willie O'Dea, Éamon Ó Cuív, Darragh O'Brien, Barry Cowen, Bobby Aylward, John Brassil, Declan Breathnach, James Browne, Mary Butler, Thomas Byrne, Jackie Cahill, Dara Calleary, Pat Casey, Shane Cassells, Jack Chambers, Lisa M. calls on the Minister for Children and Youth Affairs to commission a full independent audit of child protection practices within Tusla, with a particular focus on, but not limited to, their use of special powers outlined within section 13 of the Child Care Act 1991, which allows the removal of a child from their home when the child is believed to be in immediate danger.” — *Donnchadh Ó Laoghaire, Gerry Adams, John Brady, Pat Buckley, Seán Crowe, David Cullinane, Pearse Doherty, Dessie Ellis, Martin J. 169. “That Dáil Éireann:

notes:

- the publication in 2012 of the report entitled ‘Acute Coronary Syndrome Programme — Model of Care’, to standardise treatment of patients suffering from heart attack in its different forms in this State;
- the finding of the 2012 report that University Hospital Waterford (UHW) has the potential to develop into a 24/7 service following infrastructural and staff developments;
- the 2015 Estimate which stated that such a 24/7 service could be provided at a total annual cost of €2.7 million and capital cost of €1.9 million;
- the publication in May 2013 of the Government report entitled ‘The Establishment of Hospital Groups as a transition to Independent Hospital Trusts’, produced by an expert group led by Professor John Higgins and otherwise known as the Higgins Report;
- that the Higgins Report recommends that UHW continue to provide invasive cardiology services for the South East population;
- that the demand for service in the single catheterisation laboratory (cath lab) in the South East has grown greatly since the inception of the lab and it has now grown beyond the infrastructure committed to it;
- the unacceptable wait times being encountered for outpatient and inpatient care which are seriously detrimental to wellbeing and arise solely because of the lack of an additional cath lab facility on the UHW campus;
- that this risk was recognised by the Health Service Executive (HSE) over several years, with the lack of a second facility identified as a critical risk on the formal HSE risk register;
- that the Programme for a Partnership Government committed to the development of a second cath lab at UHW subject to a favourable recommendation from an independent clinical review;
- the publication of a report entitled ‘Independent Clinical Review of Provision of a Second Catheterisation Laboratory at University Hospital Waterford’, otherwise known as the Herity Report;

- that the South East region is the only region nationally without a 24/7 cardiac care service; and
- that multiple worldwide clinical assessments of primary emergency coronary angioplasty and stenting for Sinus Tachycardia elevated heart attack have been demonstrated to only be effective if carried out soon after the first presentation of symptoms of heart attack;

further notes:

- that the Herity Report calls for the current limited hours provision of Primary Percutaneous Coronary Intervention (PPCI) at UHW cease entirely;
- that this would result in all emergency cardiac patients in the South East having to travel to hospitals in Cork or Dublin for treatment;
- the inadequacy of the current air ambulance service to meet the needs of patients in the South East;
- the poor road infrastructure between UHW and Cork University Hospital; and
- the need to enhance ambulance services and response times;

calls on the Government to:

- immediately initiate a second independent review into the provision of cardiac care in the South East; and
- ensure that work on the review commences within six weeks of the passing of this motion and that a speedy conclusion is reached, cognisant of the sensitive issues involved;

agrees that the terms of reference for this regional review will be:

- agreed by all parties and groups in this House prior to commencement and framed in the context of existing regional policy;
- based on the need for 24/7 PPCI at UHW to ensure safe and accessible emergency cardiac care for the population of the South East;
- based on clinical and medical need and underpinned by the National Clinical Programme and consult widely and appropriately with regional clinicians and medical experts;
- based on the actual population of the South East and not an arbitrary effective catchment population; and
- cognisant of the range of travel times to hospitals outside the region and not simply the average time; and further agrees that the review will:

- respect the status of UHW as a regional hospital providing a regional cardiac service;
- identify need and capacity based on the geographical area the hospital serves, namely the population of the South East; and
- deliver on the commitment in the Higgins Report, that UHW continues to provide interventional cardiac care to patients in the South East.” — Micheál Martin and all other members of the Fianna Fáil parliamentary party, Gerry Adams and all other

170. “That Dáil Éireann:

notes that:

- 2017 marks the 102nd anniversary of the Armenian Genocide which occurred in the Ottoman Empire between 1915 and 1916;
- as of 2017, twenty-nine countries have recognised the Armenian Genocide and that only Turkey, the successor state of the Ottoman Empire, and Azerbaijan explicitly deny the historical factuality of the Armenian Genocide;
- in 1985, the United Nations (UN) Sub-Commission on the Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities received a report from the Special Rapporteur and Sub-Commission member Benjamin Whitaker entitled ‘Revised and Updated Report on the Question of the Prevention and Punishment of the Crime of Genocide’, which found the Ottoman Empire had systematically massacred Armenians during World War One;
- Whitaker’s report also cited the Armenian Genocide as meeting the criteria for the UN definition of genocide, defining it as one of the genocides of the 20th century and his report was received and noted by a resolution at the 38th session of the UN’s Sub-Commission on the Prevention of Discrimination and Protection of Minorities in 1985;
- in 1997, the International Association of Genocide Scholars (IAGS) passed a resolution unanimously recognising the Ottoman massacres of Armenians as genocide and, in 2007, the IAGS passed three different resolutions which were extended to include the Assyrian Genocide and the Pontian and Anatolian Greek Genocide among the affected minorities;
- the Parliamentary Assembly of the Council of Europe recognised the Armenian Genocide on 14th May, 2001; and
- on 15th April, 2015, the European Parliament backed a motion acknowledging the killing of 1.5 million Armenians by Ottoman Turkish forces as genocide, after passing similar motions in 1987, 2000, 2002 and 2005;

- that an estimated 1.5 million Armenians were slaughtered in this genocide; and
- the untold suffering and loss that the Armenian people endured in the Armenian Genocide which was carried out between 1915 and 1916; and supports efforts to reconcile the Armenian and Turkish peoples based on parity of esteem.” — *Aengus Ó Snodaigh, Gerry Adams, Pat Buckley, John Brady, David Cullinane, Seán Crowe, Pearse Doherty, Dessie Ellis, Martin J.
