Notices of Motions:

208. “That Dáil Éireann:

recognises the critical importance of apprenticeships and vocational education and training;
accepts that:

- the lack of apprenticeships is impacting the current construction industry and has the potential to hamper economic growth as the results of Brexit hit Ireland;
- youth unemployment is still at 12 per cent;
- of the 1,500 registrations targeted by Government for new business-led apprenticeships in 2018, only 410 starts (27 per cent of target) had taken place by 30th September this year, while the 2017 target was missed by 58 per cent;
- approximately two per cent of school-leavers are participating in apprenticeships; and
- only two per cent of the total apprentice population are female;

acknowledges that:

- apprentices advance and excel in the sectors they are involved in;
- a shift has taken place away from traditional craft apprenticeships in Ireland;
- there are currently only 41 apprenticeships while hundreds of different apprenticeship types exist in countries such as Germany;
- the current low number of apprentices registered this year in trades such as bricklaying (57), plastering (24) and floor and wall tiling (0), will create a large skills shortage that will negate the housing targets set by Government; and
- the Action Plan to Expand Apprenticeship and Traineeship in Ireland 2016-2020 aims at delivering 50,000 apprenticeships and traineeship registrations by 2020; and calls on the Government to:

- recognise the value and appropriate status of apprenticeships as an equally valuable alternative to traditional education;

- recognise that apprenticeships are awarded high levels of qualification and offer great career choices and progression;
- improve linkages between third-level institutions and industry to improve access to newly developed apprenticeships;
- support the Houses of the Oireachtas Commission leading by example in the provision of parliamentary apprenticeships;
- create a mix of apprenticeship schemes within public body organisations including:
 - horticulture, run by council parks and landscape departments;
 - engineering, journalism, digital media or broadcast production in Raidió Teilifís Éireann;
 - international relations run by the Department of Foreign Affairs and Trade; and
 - Health Service Executive apprenticeships for support or technician occupations in healthcare, amongst others;
- expand the role of Seirbhísí Oideachais Leanúnaigh agus Scileanna (SOLAS) in initiating and driving new apprenticeships, by creating a fully resourced specialist internal apprenticeship unit that concentrates solely on generating new apprenticeships, and expanding the role of SOLAS in initiating and driving new apprenticeship opportunities among employers;
- open apprenticeship offices and revamp the www.apprenticeship.ie website to provide information for anybody interested in apprenticeships and further education;
- encourage Irish-resident firms and others with international apprenticeships to set up such schemes here;
- encourage large technology companies to offer apprenticeships in Ireland, in areas such as software engineering, online security, web development, data centre management, legal and policy roles;
- support Irish businesses to offer apprenticeships across various sectors, such as childcare, hair and beauty, hospitality (waitressing, reception, accommodation, and beverage), sports and leisure, social care, office administration and institutional cleaning;
- establish a taskforce to examine a limited form of apprenticeship training or short courses during transition year and target both young men and women to partake;
- intensify the promotion of apprenticeships among the public through the introduction of an annual National Apprenticeship Week;
- focus on promoting apprenticeships among specific groups, including persons with disabilities, older people and immigrants, and improving gender balance;
- address the shortfall in the number of apprenticeships in the construction sector in the coming years through the introduction of a shared apprenticeship scheme; and
- improve the delivery of quality-assured apprenticeships and ensure annual forecasting of all apprenticeship types by SOLAS.” — *Thomas Byrne, Bobby Aylward, John Brassil, Declan Breathnach, James Browne, Mary Butler, Jackie Cahill, Dara Calleary, Pat Casey, Shane Cassells, Jack Chambers, Lisa M.
