13. “That Dáil Éireann:

notes:

- the early years sector has been acutely underfunded for many years and as a result Ireland is ranked the lowest country in the European Union (EU) for investment in this vital area;
- this lack of adequate and sustainable funding has ensured fees for parents are amongst the highest in the EU;
- that the steep costs accrued by parents in securing early years childcare places a significant financial burden on families;
- this sector, which employs approximately 30,000 people, has some of the most highly qualified professionals who are paid some of the lowest wages of any sector, with many existing on minimum wage;
- that the public health emergency has further highlighted sustainability issues within the sector, with many early years providers fearing closure; and
- the barrier to employment, particularly for women, as a direct result of accessing childcare and the exorbitant costs which are particularly cumbersome; and calls on the Government to:

- introduce a comprehensive early years plan that:
  - defines the early years as a distinct phase with unique learning and developmental requirements;
  - recognises the diversity of the early years sector and acknowledges that a one-size-fits-all solution is insufficient to address this diversity;
  - delivers an early years sustainability fund for the whole sector;
  - commits to significantly ramping up investment year-on-year, fast-tracking to a spend of at least one per cent of Gross Domestic Product (GPD) as recommended by the early years sector and United Nations Children’s Fund (UNICEF);
  - reinstates the wage subsidy scheme at the full amount, as the basis of investment in the sector, so that entry level wages increase to the living wage;
  - fully commits to implement pay scales and full continuous professional development for all staff which properly value childcare as a viable long-term career choice; and
  - ensures, once proper investment is in place, that a maximum weekly childcare fee is set, incrementally reducing until the service is free at the point of use; and
- commit to engage with the sector in the development of the plan and ensure that representatives of the sector are consulted with.” — Kathleen Funchion, Chris Andrews, John Brady, Martin Browne, Pat Buckley, Matt Carthy, Sorca Clarke, Rose Conway-Walsh, Réada Cronin, Seán Crowe, David Cullinane, Pa Daly, Pearse Doherty, Paul Donnelly, Dessie Ellis, Mairéad Farrell, Thomas Gould, Johnny Guirke, Martin Kenny, Claire Kerrane, Pádraig Mac Lochlainn, Mary Lou McDonald, Denise Mitchell, Imelda Munster, Johnny Mythen, Eoin Ó Broin, Donnchadh Ó Laoghaire, Ruairí Ó Murchú, Louise O’Reilly, Darren O’Rourke, Aengus Ó Snodaigh, Maurice Quinlivan, Patricia Ryan, Brian Stanley, Pauline Tully, Mark Ward, Violet-Anne Wynne.

14. “That Dáil Éireann:

notes that:

- over 1,400 workers in Debenhams Ireland faced mass layoffs when the United Kingdom (UK) parent company announced it would no longer support the Irish subsidiary in April of this year;
- the company have not negotiated with the workers’ representatives since and that liquidators have been appointed;
- the workers have a collective agreement with Debenhams that guarantees an enhanced redundancy payment package of two weeks statutory plus two weeks;
- initially workers were informed that the company had liabilities of around €19 million, but this estimate has since been revised upwards to around €225 million;

- Debenhams Ireland had entered an arrangement as co-guarantor of a major debt facility of around £200 million utilised by the UK parent company in 2019;
- the Bank of Ireland is part of the consortium that includes Barclays bank and two United States based hedge funds that triggered this process and this consortium are now effectively the owners of Debenhams UK; and
- workers are fearful that the insolvency of their company has all the hallmarks of a tactical insolvency which will leave them as creditors with nothing other than statutory entitlements;

further notes that:

- five years ago, Clerys' department store closed and its workers were made redundant with no notification by their company;
- the Oireachtas responded by commissioning a report into the causes of the closure, and the manner in which workers were abandoned;
- the subsequent 'Expert Examination and Review of Laws on the Protection of Employee Interests when assets are separated from the operating entity (Duffy-Cahill Report)' made several suggestions for legislative reform to ensure workers would not be abandoned in any subsequent closure or liquidation process; and
- to date the Oireachtas has failed to legislate for any of the areas examined by the Duffy-Cahill Report; condemns:

- the failure of past Governments to legislate to protect workers in these situations; and
- the actions of the consortium now in control of Debenhams and specifically the role of the Bank of Ireland who were bailed out by the Irish State in 2008;

sends a message of support to the Debenhams' workers for the stance they have taken to protect their livelihoods;

recognises:

- the plight of the Debenhams' workers and the decades of service many have rendered to their company;
- the threat of mass redundancies facing many other workers in many sectors and industries in the coming period; and
- in the case of Debenhams, the State is the first creditor that the liquidators seek to settle with on amounts due for various taxes and rates owed;

calls on the Government to:

- legislate as a priority to strengthen the rights of workers facing redundancies and layoffs, and specifically to legislate to:
  - reorder the priority afforded to workers as creditors in any liquidation process by amending section 621 of the Companies Act 2014;
  - amend the Protection of Employment Act 1977 to increase the compensation for workers from four weeks to two years in cases where their employer has contravened sections 9 and 10 of the Act; and
  - amend all appropriate legislation such as the 'Protection of Employment Acts' as called for in the Duffy-Cahill Report to ensure that where agreements for enhanced redundancies have been negotiated with workers, these are honoured as preferential creditors in any subsequent liquidation process; and in recognition of the failure of the State to act in this area and to protect workers like those in Debenhams, calls on the Minister for Finance, Minister for Employment Affairs and Social Protection and the Taoiseach to:

- notify the liquidators in Debenhams that the State will forego its priority as a creditor and instruct the liquidator to use funds realised instead to pay the enhanced redundancy payments agreed between the Debenhams' workers and the company; and
- immediately initiate negotiations with representatives of the Bank of Ireland to ensure the workers receive the full collective redundancy package previously agreed with the Debenhams' company.” — Richard Boyd Barrett, Brid Smith, Gino Kenny, Paul Murphy, Mick Barry.
