- the findings of the Ombudsman relating to the design and administration of the Lost At Sea Scheme in the recently published Special Report on the scheme;
- the first and only other time a Special Report was published by the Office of Ombudsman, Government instructed the Oireachtas Committee on Finance and the Public Service to carry out an investigation into the Report and its findings;

noting:

- the Ombudsman’s recommendations regarding the complainant at the centre of this case;
- the persistent refusal of Government to refer this Special Report to the Oireachtas Committee on Agriculture, Fisheries and Food for investigation;
- the open criticism by the Ombudsman of this refusal by Government to consider the report further and the serious ramifications this action will have on the future integrity of the Office of the Ombudsman;
- the Ombudsman’s concerns that this case has highlighted the failure of the Oireachtas to hold the Executive to account;
- the worrying implications this failure has for the wider political system;

calls on Government to immediately instruct the Joint Committee on Agriculture, Fisheries and Food, to carry out a thorough investigation into the Lost at Sea Report.’’.
