22. “Go ndéanann Seanad Éireann, an tuarascáil ar an imscrúdú a rinne an Coimisiún um Chaighdeáin in Oifigí Poiblí ar sháruihte ag an Seanadóir Pat O’Neill ar alt 21(1) den Acht um Chaighdeáin in Oifigí Poiblí a thabhairt dá aire, ar tuarascáil í a leagadh faoi bhráid Sheanad Éireann an 23 Bealtaine, 2012;

a mheas, maidir le ceanglais an Achta um Chaighdeáin in Oifigí Poiblí, 2001, á cheangal nach mór do chomhaltaí fianaise a thabhairt go bhfuil a n-oibleagáidí i dtaca le cúrsaí cánachais á gcomhlíonadh, gurb í an intinn atá leo muinín a chinntiú as ionracas daoine a thoghtar chun oifigí polaitiúla; is of the opinion that any contravention of the legislation is a serious matter;

notes, however that this is the first occasion such a contravention has been reported to Seanad Éireann by the Commission and that Senator O’Neill is now in compliance with section 21(1) of the Act and has apologised for failing to comply with the legislation as of the required date, and accordingly considers that no further action is required.”

Tairiscint (atógáil) (0.02 n. fágtha):

Motion (resumed) (0.02 m. remaining):

5. “That Seanad Éireann, noting that:

- research on behalf of the Environmental Protection Agency shows that Irish consumers throw away 1 million tonnes of food a year which is approximately 30% of food bought;
- the average person throws out almost 300kg of ‘black bin rubbish’ every year, and about one third of this waste is food waste. This is the equivalent of 3,750 apples;
- this waste costs every household in Ireland about €1,000 per year;
- restaurants dispose of about €125 million worth of food every year;
- wastage is a huge financial cost to the State through the dumping of it in landfills;
- food wastage is a major factor in greenhouse gas emissions through rotting;
- food is inadequately labelled and its true origin is often obscured to the consumer;
- food is inadequately labelled in terms of content;
- there is a childhood obesity epidemic with over 300,000 children considered obese;
- most requirements of the new EU Food Information Regulations requirements do not apply until 2014 and nutrition labelling will become mandatory in 2016;

calls on the Government to introduce proper food labelling to improve information to consumers and other food safety measures:

- including the provision of ‘consume by’ dates of food products, in tandem with the ‘best before’ and ‘sell by’ dates (that is, many foods are in fact edible after the ‘best before’ or the ‘sell by’ or ‘display until’ dates which used by retailers) to reduce food wastage;
- immediately ensure “verifiable country of origin” labelling on all farm produce sold by retailers to ensure that consumers are not confused and undermine local producers by passing off imports as Irish as is the case currently (e.g. through the use of tricolors, shamrocks, green labels, etc.) — especially as the EU debate about country of origin labelling has effectively been postponed;

- ensure that terms like “Irish food” can only be used after specific criteria are satisfied — by doing so, it will help to stimulate growth in the economy by allowing consumers to buy produce verifiably produced in Ireland;
- include labelling on food so that Irish consumers know exactly from where their products are originating;
- given that it is estimated that up to 25% of an individual’s carbon footprint is associated with their diet; consider the introduction of labelling for products with at least 25% greenhouse gas savings (as in Sweden) to provide consumers with the ability to make an informed choice and with the ability to see how some products are more sustainable than others;
- introduce labelling with clearer food storage instructions to reduce waste;
- consider the introduction of simpler food labelling for food products aimed at children;
- teach primary schoolchildren more effectively about food and food labelling, emphasising healthy eating and continue to examine existing advertising regulations with regard to children and clarify the potential tax on fatty foods; and
- welcomes the European Commission’s proposal for the introduction, for the first time and on a voluntary basis, of an electronic identification system (EID) for bovine animals by repealing the current provisions on voluntary beef labelling; and to consider additional measures to reduce waste, including, but not limited to:

- introducing a proper system for distributing leftover food to those most in need and to the appropriate charities; including ensuring that any catering procured by the State will be required to redistribute that food to vulnerable groups;
- encouraging retailers to allow ‘2 for 1’ offers to be redeemed at a later date through a voucher system, discouraging waste; and
- encouraging producers and retailers to reduce packaging including the introduction of biodegradable packaging and packaging that keeps fresh produce edible for longer in addition to making packaging easier to open for the elderly or disabled.”.

—Senators Feargal Quinn, Mary-Ann O’Brien.

Leasúithe:

Amendments:

1. To delete all words after “Seanad Éireann” and substitute the following:

“noting that:

- minimisation and management of food waste is being addressed under the National Waste Prevention Programme and the plan covering the period 2009-2012;

- the Waste Management (Food Waste) Regulations 2009, on commercial food waste, introduced by the Department of the Environment, Community and Local Government, include a requirement that from 1 July, 2010, the commercial sector have the food waste it generates segregated and collected separately and also imposes obligations on the major sources of food waste such as hot food outlets and institutions;
- the Waste Management (Landfill Levy) Regulations 2011 provide for an increase in the landfill levy to €50 per tonne from 1 September, 2011 and that there is a commitment to further increases;
- the General food labelling Directive 2000/13/EC (S.I. 483/2002) requires indication of the place of origin where failure to give such particulars might mislead the consumer to a material degree and EU food information regulations will provide additional information to the consumer;
- according to IUNA data, children are not eating the recommended portions of milk, fresh meat and fruit and vegetables;

considers that these measures will improve Ireland's performance in relation to food waste, and in particular:

- notes the launch by the Minister for the Environment, Community and Government of the Green Public Procurement Action Plan in January, 2012, which aims to implement green public procurement in favour of more resource efficient, less polluting goods services and works;
- highlights that food and catering services are a priority area for green procurement and that contracting parties will be required to deal with food waste in compliance with the National Composting Standard;
- emphasises that the sustainability of the agri-food sector in Ireland provides consumers in Ireland and further afield with environmental assurance, welcomes in this regard schemes such as the Bord Bia Beef and Lamb Quality Assurance Scheme, developed in partnership with Teagasc and the Carbon Trust. This includes traceability back to the farm and carbon measurement on the farm as well as an indication of origin;
- remarks that Country of Origin labelling is currently mandatory for beef, fish, honey, olive oil and fresh fruit and vegetables and for other products when its absence might mislead the consumer; that this is being extended to other meats and that the European Commission will carry out a feasibility study on the possibility of extending country of origin labelling requirements to other foods including ingredients that represent more than 50% of a food;
- notes that the DAFM is supporting research into anaerobic digestion, utilisation of by-products of processing and fruit and vegetable waste in particular and considers that it is important that the findings of such research are commercialised and used on a wide scale;
- encourages more schools to take up the EU school milk scheme;
- notes that the Food Dude/EU school fruit scheme, managed by Bord Bia funded by DAFM, has now been rolled out to over half of primary school children and that evaluations of the scheme have consistently shown increased consumption of fruit and vegetables;

- recommends wider publicity of the Stop Food Waste Programme (www.StopFoodWaste.ie) and the www.foodwaste.ie and the EPA publication “Less Food Waste — More Profit” which provides advice to consumers and operators on buying, storage and low waste cookery tips such as buying what is required, taking note of existing stock, checking use-by dates and understanding the differences between Use-by, Best before and Sell by dates, and on how to compost any residual food waste, as easy access to information and advice could have a substantial impact on individual consumer decisions and national patterns of consumer and operator behaviour.”.

[28 June, 2012]

10. “That Seanad Éireann notes that:

— the Universal Declaration of Human Rights, the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, and the European Social Charter recognises the right to housing as part of the right to an adequate standard of living;

— there are 94,000 people in receipt of rent supplement in this State;

- there are 100,000 people on waiting lists for local authority housing in this State, and the public housing sector has been chronically underfunded for many years;
- many of those in receipt of rent supplement fall within a particularly vulnerable category of tenants, often already living in properties which are at the lower end of the price scale for rented accommodation;
- the Minister for Social Welfare's stated commitment that no tenant would be made homeless on account of these changes;
- according to Focus Ireland there are some 5,000 people homeless in the State at any given time;
- many single parents face an anomaly as regards being assessed as single persons for the purposes of rent allowance, despite having joint custody of a child;
- the problems experienced by a proportion of landlords cannot be separated from the wider mortgage arrears crisis;
- many of those in receipt of rent supplement will find it difficult to renegotiate their rent downwards, and to find alternative accommodation in the vicinity.

Seanad Éireann criticises the practice of landlords seeking cash payments from tenants, in addition to accepting rent supplement, in breach of the legislation;

and therefore calls on the Government to:

- provide support information and assistance to tenants currently availing of rent supplement;
- negotiate directly with landlords the rates at which rent supplement is paid, in order to reduce the expenditure on rent supplement;
- put in place a scheme whereby rent supplement is paid directly to landlords, rather than to tenants;
- make as much use as possible of suitable NAMA accommodation in order to meet the needs of those currently in receipt of rent supplement, and to acquire vacant NAMA properties for social housing purposes; and
- direct HEOs (formerly known as CWOs) to take all reasonable steps necessary to ensure that tenants have appropriate accommodation.”.
