Non-Government Motions:

1. “That Seanad Éireann:

notes that:

- in the early years of Irish statehood two institutions, ACC and ICC, were set up in recognition of the importance of financial services to facilitate the growth of our agricultural and industrial sectors;
- ACC and ICC were allowed to become part of larger private commercial banks and now have ceased to exist as all foreign owned retail banks have left or are leaving the Irish market;
- Ulster Bank has one million current accounts including 70,000 commercial accounts and 301,000 deposit accounts, KBC has over 300,000 current accounts. All these accounts will have to be closed within the next 12 months, with most requiring new accounts to be opened elsewhere;
- Irish mortgage rates are the second highest in the Eurozone after Greece and double the currency bloc’s average rate;
- banks regularly blame the increased capital charge for the higher mortgage rate, but a Goodbody Stockbrokers’ analysis in July 2021 found the real difference is in the banks’ operating costs compared to their EU counterparts;
- the report on Local Public Banking in Ireland and the Indecon Report both concluded there was no economic case for a public bank in Ireland but were based on a much different banking landscape than currently exists;

recognises that:

- the choices of individuals and companies are now severely limited regarding the provision of basic financial services especially with local access;
- both personal and business consumers are paying over the odds on their mortgages and loans with only the prospect of increased interest rates going forward;
- reliance of our remaining financial institutions on online solutions actively discriminates against certain cohorts of the population;
- credit unions have limited scope to provide financial services to business customers e.g. personal current accounts only, and lack the expertise to fully serve this important sector; credit unions are not banks and do not want to be banks;
- the lack of availability of, and appetite for, credit by our SMEs, is constraining the growth of our economy as these are the backbone of the economy and provide the vast majority of employment;

acknowledges that:

- the Banking Review has commenced and is due to report by end of November 2022;
- separately, the review of the credit union movement is due to be completed imminently, members of the Government openly talk of the credit unions filling the gap left by Ulster Bank and KBC thus pre-empting the conclusions of this review along with the Banking Review; and calls on the Government to:

8. “That Seanad Éireann, in accordance with the recommendation of the Women’s Parliamentary Caucus:

acknowledges that:

- the UN Convention for the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (UNCPRD) requires a significant social transformation from a medical approach to disability, where economic development, health, and care economies can sustain the violation of human rights through a lack of rights-based care, and where people are institutionalised in residential care settings, or in their own homes without access to the community, to a social or human rights approach where individuals receive rights-based care in the community, and are supported to live with their families, or independently in the community, and have a better quality of life;

- the report ‘The Care Economy, Covid-19 Recovery and Gender Equality’ highlights how the care economy in Ireland relies heavily on the private marketplace and informal family and community networks to access care, and while the State funds a significant amount of formal child and long-term care, it is delivered mainly by private-for-profit services; in contrast to paid work, participation and the time people spend in informal care activities is rarely measured;
- as highlighted in the Joint Committee on Disability Matters recent report ‘Aligning Disability Funding with the UNCRPD Budget 2024 Pre-Budget Submission’, there are concerns regarding a lack of co-ordination, organisation, and oversight, as well as policy implementation with regard voluntary services who are delivering disability services in the community in Ireland; this has significantly impacted the development of community infrastructure, planning and services, to provide people with adequate support to live with their families or independently, and fulfil requirements of the UNCRPD;
- homecare services in Ireland, which allows people to receive health, social and personal care within their home, also needs urgent reform, regulation, and standardisation to establish equity in service provision, and ensure their quality and safety, while ensuring that the services facilitate rights-based care;
- Ireland is undergoing a major demographic shift to an ageing and disabled population which is significantly increasing levels of caring responsibilities, while adding significant pressure on informal family and community networks;
- as highlighted in Family Carers Ireland report ‘State of Caring 2022’, the lived experience of those providing informal care in Ireland reflects a stark reality where carers are experiencing significant poverty, loneliness, social exclusion and reduced physical and mental health, without access to essential supports;
- there are other carers, outside family carers, who are caring for someone, including foster carers, who need additional support to provide rights-based care;
- UK research ‘Developing a clearer understanding of the Carer’s Allowance claimant group’, highlights that because of the diversity of carers’ circumstances and characteristics, for example, the level of care an individual carer provides varies according to the needs of the person they care for, the extent to which they have other support with their caring role as some have to give up work, or some carers may be younger, while others are older and need more support, there is a need to adapt benefits systems to make them more responsive to individual carers’ needs;
- there is a need to develop Ireland’s Care Economy in line with the UNCRPD to realise rights-based care, while redistributing funding to support informal family and community care networks to deliver equity in access to services and better outcomes for the people that receive care, along with ensuring effective early intervention, supported independent living, adequate carers welfare supports, and in-home and community supports for those who are being cared for, to live at home;
- both the deeply gendered division of caring responsibilities in society, and the need to ensure that a higher value is placed on care and caring roles, both of which issues are recognised and addressed in the recommendations of the Citizens' Assembly on Gender Equality and in the set of actions proposed to progress those recommendations as contained in the December 2022 report of the Joint Committee on Gender Equality, 'Unfinished Democracy: Achieving Gender Equality.'

further acknowledges:

- delivery of the 'Carers' Guarantee' proposal will allow Family Carers Ireland to deliver a core basket of services to family carers across the country, regardless of where they live;
- Government spending on social protection schemes, public services and taxation which broadly contribute to the Care Economy has increased significantly in recent years from €8.8 billion in 2019, to a projected spend of €10.6 billion in 2023, which equates to an increase of 21%;
- the National Carers' Strategy 2012 was instrumental in raising the profile of carers and unpaid care, recognising the significant contribution carers provide to the State, and highlighting the model and framework for positive collaboration between Government and the care sector;
- the National Carers' Strategy 2012 was developed before Ireland ratified the UNCRPD and at a time of significant economic challenges and public financial constraints which led to limited progress, developing longer-term commitments for carers and implementation of the forty-two actions it contains on a cost-neutral basis;
- the UNCRPD Implementation Plan, which will outline how the Convention will be implemented, along with right-based supports for family and home life, has not yet been published;

notes that:

- there is a need to acknowledge and meaningfully support carers, who are fulfilling Article 23 of the UNCRPD, by caring for their loved ones in the family home and in the community, as opposed to that individual being placed in a long-term residential care setting, which through a lack of support, may become the only option;
- there is also a need to significantly increase residential places for people in disability residential care/supported housing to address a substantial backlog of need for the significant number of people with extremely high support needs, whose current living arrangements with their families are no longer sustainable;
- individuals' rights must be upheld in these residential care settings and housing must be made available in the community in line with Article 19 of the UNCRPD;
- respite is identified by carers as crucial for their wellbeing and quality of life and is a key support to families to care for their loved ones in the family home as opposed to placing them in long-term residential care;
- the Government has committed to develop a new centre-based respite facility in each CHO; however, access to respite care is inconsistent throughout the State and rather than increase over recent years, respite provision has fallen and does not address the latent unmet need which the Disability Capacity Review to 2032 suggests requires an investment of €16 to €20m annually;

- the Disability Capacity Review to 2032 also estimates up to 3,900 extra residential places are needed by 2032, costing €550 million annually; however, because of the crisis management in the residential care placement process, respite capacity can be used to fill the demand for residential care, which limits families access to respite as a resource to maintain resilience;
- the Programme for Government 2020 has committed to introducing a statutory scheme to support people to live in their own homes; however, homecare providers across Ireland have for many years faced a staffing crisis, whereby people who are medically assessed by the HSE as needing homecare are not able to access home supports due to a shortage of staff;
- over one-third of those currently on a waiting list for homecare supports or a homecare package are waiting over two years for the service;
- the Government has committed to holding a Referendum in 2023 to implement the recommendations of the Citizens' Assembly and the Joint Committee on Gender Equality, in order to insert a specific provision into Article 41 of the Constitution to recognise and acknowledge the value of care in Irish society;

in the absence of a new strategy for carers, with regard to progress on relevant measures to date, and to ensure transition to a rights-based approach to care, calls on the Government to immediately deliver on commitments that support carers as outlined in the Programme for Government 2020 and to consider additional measures where appropriate, including:

- the establishment of the Commission on Care immediately and the extension of its remit to include all types of care, including disability and delivery of rights-based care in line with the UNCRPD;
- ensuring that elderly carers who are providing informal care in the home can access support as a priority and increase residential places to address the substantial backlog of need for the significant number of young people with very high support needs, whose current living arrangements with their families are no longer sustainable, while ensuring that individuals rights are upheld in these settings;
- providing access to the State Contributory Pension to those in receipt of the Carer's Allowance, to include a pension solution for foster carers;
- ensuring implementation of the Programme for Government 2020 commitment to the delivery of a 'Carer's Guarantee' proposal to allow Family Carers Ireland to deliver a core basket of services to family carers across the country, regardless of where they live;

further calls on the Government to immediately implement provisions that support carers under other sectoral policies and consider additional provisions where applicable, including:

- ensuring carers' needs are reflected in the UNCRPD Implementation Plan as well as providing standard training for all carers on the provision of rights-based care in line with the Assisted Decision-Making Act;

- continuing to develop carer prevalence data to inform policy, service planning and delivery;
- ensuring equality-proofing of budgetary policy and consideration of whether welfare changes disproportionately impact households affected by disabilities;
- the prompt national rollout of the interRAI Single Assessment Tool as the standard assessment tool for care-needs and ensuring that individuals with disabilities of any age can access the new home support scheme;
- ensuring additional funding for the National Treatment Purchase Fund to enable it to be extended to include clearing the waiting lists for paediatric interventions and essential therapies by treating these children through the private system;
- ensuring the accessibility and availability of in-home and community-based services for families with a member with disability, including biological and foster families of children with disabilities, and, in particular, families of children with autism or who are caring for individuals with dementia, for example, personal assistant services and additional access to homecare services, to guarantee enjoyment of the right to family on an equal basis with others;
- collecting and reporting disaggregated data on the availability of community-based supports for families of children with disabilities, and the number of families who access those services;
- developing resource networks of support at local levels, i.e., parent's groups;
- within the statutory home support scheme, the introduction of a provision for a right to a minimum 20 days per year of respite and the right to a Family Carer Needs Assessment, including foster carers;
- the immediate alleviation of waiting list for respite provision;
- increasing the maximum grant limits, income thresholds and disregards under the Housing Adaptation Scheme and removing the need for assessment of the income of other adults living in the household not in full-time education;

further calls on the Government to consider and fund additional measures to support carers in Budget 2024, to:

- ensure the inclusion of carers' needs in legislation which will extend and enhance the rights of carers aligned with the UNCRPD, with the purpose of better supporting carers on a more consistent basis so that they can continue to care, if they so wish, in good health and to have a life alongside caring;
- undertake a review of the cost of caring and assess how current social insurance schemes for illness, disability and carers can be efficiently used to provide income supplements to carers in Ireland to address rising costs of caring, and in the interim to increase thresholds from 18.5 to 22.5 hours per week if an individual receives Carer's Allowance, Carer's Benefit or the Carer Support Grant; this review must be completed before the cessation of this Seanad session and consider:

(a) the impact on education and employment;

- (b) full removal of ceilings on number of hours in paid work outside of the home for those in receipt of Carer's Allowance;
  - (c) developing access for carers to avail of Back to Education, INTREO schemes etc., and ensure that the Carer's Allowance is a qualifying scheme for training supports;
  - (d) enabling access to the SUSI grant for carers undertaking part-time study as well as providing direct funding/subsidisation to enable the undertaking of QQI level 5 health care courses;
- develop individualised means-testing for Carer's Allowance and increase thresholds to include the costs of caring and to reflect a more needs-led payment including, how to provide additional access for full-time family carers to the Back to School and fuel allowance; in the interim, to introduce a living wage/basic income for carers by increasing the Carer's Allowance to the equivalent amount of the artists basic income at €325;
  - introduce 'care credits' for people who do not qualify for Carer's Allowance but should still accrue credits in order to remain within the social protection system;
  - develop a central database of individuals who have applied for, or who are actively aware of, individuals who need a disability service, such as a residential service, enhanced support in an existing residential place, or other non-residential services such as respite or home support that fully captures the level of unmet need in the system;
  - introduce care coordinators within local health areas;
  - introduce a mechanism under the fair deal scheme to develop an equitable system for community / long-term care as well as developing discharge planning;
  - ensure that the promised Referendum to amend Article 41 of the Constitution to provide for the value of care in society is held in 2023."

9. "That Seanad Éireann:

recognises that:

- protecting citizens is a founding duty of the State and policing has a defining role in that basic function;
- incidents of violence, crime and anti-social behaviour in our capital city and large urban areas such as Galway and Athlone are increasingly worrying for the public;
- high-profile incidents of violence, crime and anti-social behaviour in our capital reflect badly on our country as a whole;
- crime and anti-social behaviour is an issue and a concern in every part of our country;
- communities feel unsafe and are seeking a more visible policing presence;

notes that:

- the Programme for Government commits to prioritising visible policing in both rural and urban communities and ensuring more visible community policing, in line with the Report of the Commission on the Future of Policing;
- community policing, where members of An Garda Síochána are known to, and have, a relationship with local businesses, services and citizens, including young people, is essential for building stronger, safer communities;

acknowledges that:

- public trust in An Garda Síochána is essential for ensuing safe communities and requires on-going sufficient resources, powers and reform;
- retention of members is increasingly difficult for An Garda Síochána;
- low morale, lack of work-life balance, fears for personal safety and unmanageable rosters are contributing to retention issues in An Garda Síochána;
- ongoing recruitment cannot fully compensate for the loss of members of the force;

calls:

- on the Minister for Justice to outline a clear plan to address retention of members of An Garda Síochána;
  - for the resolution of the ongoing dispute over Garda rosters;
  - for the provision of adequate resources and Garda numbers right across the country in both urban and rural areas;
  - for increased resources for community policing in both urban and rural areas;
  - on An Garda Síochána to implement the small area policing model;
  - on the Department of Justice to explore the use of juvenile community service as an effective form of restorative justice;
  - for a dedicated transport unit within An Garda Síochána; and
  - for plans to address the drugs crisis, which is particularly impacting young people, and the development of a clear plan for prevention of a life of crime.”
