128. Tairiscintí nach ón Rialtas:
Non-Government Motions:

1. “That Seanad Éireann:

notes that:

- in the early years of Irish statehood two institutions, ACC and ICC, were set up in recognition of the importance of financial services to facilitate the growth of our agricultural and industrial sectors;
- ACC and ICC were allowed to become part of larger private commercial banks and now have ceased to exist as all foreign owned retail banks have left or are leaving the Irish market;
- Ulster Bank has one million current accounts including 70,000 commercial accounts and 301,000 deposit accounts, KBC has over 300,000 current accounts. All these accounts will have to be closed within the next 12 months, with most requiring new accounts to be opened elsewhere;

- Irish mortgage rates are the second highest in the Eurozone after Greece and double the currency bloc's average rate;
- banks regularly blame the increased capital charge for the higher mortgage rate, but a Goodbody Stockbrokers' analysis in July 2021 found the real difference is in the banks' operating costs compared to their EU counterparts;
- the report on Local Public Banking in Ireland and the Indecon Report both concluded there was no economic case for a public bank in Ireland but were based on a much different banking landscape than currently exists;

recognises that:

- the choices of individuals and companies are now severely limited regarding the provision of basic financial services especially with local access;
- both personal and business consumers are paying over the odds on their mortgages and loans with only the prospect of increased interest rates going forward;
- reliance of our remaining financial institutions on online solutions actively discriminates against certain cohorts of the population;
- credit unions have limited scope to provide financial services to business customers e.g. personal current accounts only, and lack the expertise to fully serve this important sector; credit unions are not banks and do not want to be banks;
- the lack of availability of, and appetite for, credit by our SMEs, is constraining the growth of our economy as these are the backbone of the economy and provide the vast majority of employment;

acknowledges that:

- the Banking Review has commenced and is due to report by end of November 2022;
- separately, the review of the credit union movement is due to be completed imminently, members of the Government openly talk of the credit unions filling the gap left by Ulster Bank and KBC thus pre-empting the conclusions of this review along with the Banking Review;

and calls on the Government to:

[24th March, 2023]

8. “That Seanad Éireann:

acknowledges that:

- Ireland has promised to fully ratify the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities as per the Programme for Government;
- the National Disability Authority and the Disability Stakeholder Group have recently published reports that show Irish Government Departments are failing to make sufficient progress to meet the minimum requirements for disabled Irish citizens, as set out by the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities (UNCRPD);
- disability services for children are in failure countrywide, with a crisis in the recruitment and retention of physiotherapists, speech therapists and occupational therapists;
- tens of thousands of Irish children remain on waiting lists, denied the necessary therapeutic interventions within the critical windows of opportunity with their age and development; this delayed, mostly absent, treatment leads to many young people being denied their full potential;
- on Tuesday, 9th May, 2023, the Minister for Finance responded to a question regarding the budget targets by saying that in 2023, his Department was forecasting a general Government surplus of €10 billion; next year the budget surplus is expected to increase to €16.2 billion;

- on average, people with disabilities live with a permanent cost of living crisis; the Department's own 'Cost of Disability in Ireland Report', published in 2021, shows the extra cost in Ireland of being disabled ranges from €9,000 to €11,000;
- this is before a disabled citizen pays rent or tries to feed themselves; the current Disability Allowance is €11,440 a year, and barely meets this additional cost of disability itself;
- over 100,000 disabled citizens live below the poverty line;
- the Minister for Social Protection, Deputy Heather Humphreys, proposes to target disabled citizens for 'medical assessments' to 'categorise' their disability into three levels, each revolving around a 'capacity to work';
- on Wednesday, 20th September, 2023, Minister Humphreys met with disability support groups before publishing a Green Paper on Disability Reform, saying the following:
 - 'people who are not able to work will get a higher payment rate. The proposed higher rate is the same as the State Pension Contributory rate which is currently €265.30 a week;
 - people in the lowest tier with the highest capacity to work will receive a payment of €220 a week and will be provided supports to find training and employment opportunities suited to their needs;
 - people with a more limited capacity to work will be placed in the middle tier and their payment will be half-way between tier 1 and tier 3. They will be offered appropriate employment supports and services.';
- Ireland is currently the only country in the European Union that does not provide a legal right for a person to access all the supports listed in an assessment of need or equivalent document;
- many people with disabilities nationwide are not getting the supports they are entitled to; therefore, the support people in tier 2 and tier 3 will actually get is not clear; they might even get no support at all;

notes that:

- the reforms proposed by the Government are similar to the Work Capability Assessment introduced as an UK austerity measure in 2008; the results of that policy were as follows:
 - as part of these work-for-benefits schemes, a French company called Atos Healthcare was contracted to assess people to see if they were entitled to disability payments; this was aimed at reducing the number of people receiving benefits;
 - multiple deaths were reported to the Department of Work and Pensions; doctors at Atos even said that checks were being done too quickly and that the system was biased towards declaring people fit for work;

- there was a surge in suicide among disabled citizens in England, Wales, Scotland and Northern Ireland, with some cancer patients forced to stop treatment to work for benefits; one double-lung and heart transplant patient was deemed fit to work and died nine days later;
- Atos bosses even admitted that 50 per cent of the people they were assessing could end up destitute;
- Whistle-blowers in Atos came forward and GPs united to try and shut down the programme;
- Atos eventually made a £500 million settlement to the Department of Work and Pensions;
- due to the failures of the Work Capability Assessment more broadly, there is discussion within the UK Conservative Party about reforming it;
- this system has been brought thoroughly into disrepute and earlier this year the Westminster Work and Pensions Committee stated that there was a ‘pervasive lack of trust’ in the assessment system;
- funds that could be spent on providing supports for people with disabilities will instead be spent on conducting assessments to see which tier they fall into;
- supports are not being provided to people who can work, such as interpreters in the workplace for members of the deaf community; similarly, supports are not being provided to people on the autism spectrum;
- it is completely inconsistent with the Government’s current, and expensive, PR campaign titled ‘Disability Rights are Human Rights’;
- it is inconsistent with the Programme for Government: Our Shared Future, which states that the Government has ratified the UN Convention on the Right of Persons with Disabilities, which it has not, and that the Government will empower people to choose the supports that most meet their needs;
- it is inconsistent with the UN Convention on the Right of Persons with Disabilities;

calls on:

- the Minister for Social Protection and other members of Government to:
 - immediately stop the proposals listed in the Green Paper on Disability Reform;
 - forthwith ensure that the Disability Allowance be made a universal, non-means-tested payment;
 - raise the Disability Allowance to the level of the PUP payment to take over 100,000 disabled citizens out of abject poverty;
 - ratify all protocols of the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities within the lifetime of this Government.”

Leasú:

Amendment:

1. To delete all words after “That Seanad Éireann:” and substitute the following:

“notes that:

- the Minister for Social Protection has published a Green Paper on Reform of Disability Income Support payments for public consultation to provide an opportunity for disabled people and disabled people’s representative organisations an opportunity to input to the shape of future reforms to welfare payments for people with disabilities;
- the Green Paper is a consultation paper only that outlines one possible approach to achieving the aim of higher payments and better employment supports;
- the proposals contained in it are intended to inform discussion, debate and to seek ideas for improved or alternative proposals to address the issues, and that the feedback received will help to design and develop a new model of income supports for the Government to consider;
- under the proposals in the Green Paper, nobody who is currently in receipt of long-term disability payments will be moved off a disability payment;
- there is no proposal to reduce anybody’s payment under the Green Paper; rather it proposes significant increases in payments for those with the greatest need;
- the Green Paper’s objective is to insulate disabled people who cannot work from poverty, by providing them with higher weekly payment rates and to provide more targeted employment supports for those who want to work;
- the Cost of Disability Report, published in 2021, following extensive consultation with disabled people, recommended that the levels of disability payments and allowances should be changed to reflect the very different costs of disability by severity and type of disability;
- the Cost of Disability Report also recommended that a high priority should be given to facilitate an increase in employment opportunities for individuals with disabilities;
- the proposals in the Green Paper will assist Ireland in meeting the requirements of Articles 27 and 28 of the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities regarding access to employment and an adequate standard of living;

further notes:

- the Government has taken, and is taking, a number of measures to improve outcomes for people with disabilities, including through:
 - paying a Disability Support Grant in 2022 and again this year;

- increasing the basic rate of payment from €203 when it took office to €232 per week in Budget 2024;
- introducing a fast-track return to disability payments for people with a disability who take up but cannot sustain employment;
- introducing changes to allow people who leave a disability payment to retain their medical card;
- increasing the income disregards for Disability Allowance payments;
- expanding and increasing the funding of the EmployAbility Service;
- introducing an early engagement model to support people with disabilities access training and employment;
- increasing the period of time for which Domiciliary Care Allowance is paid while a child is in hospital or post-bereavement;
- increasing the Carer's Support Grant;
- increasing income thresholds for Carer's Allowance recipients;
- funding and publishing research on costs of disability;
- reducing waiting days for Illness Benefit payments and introducing statutory sick pay;
- increasing payments under the Treatment Benefits scheme for access to hearing aids;
- notwithstanding these significant supports, disabled people continue to experience higher poverty risks, high costs of disability and low employment participation and it is clear that more needs to be done."
